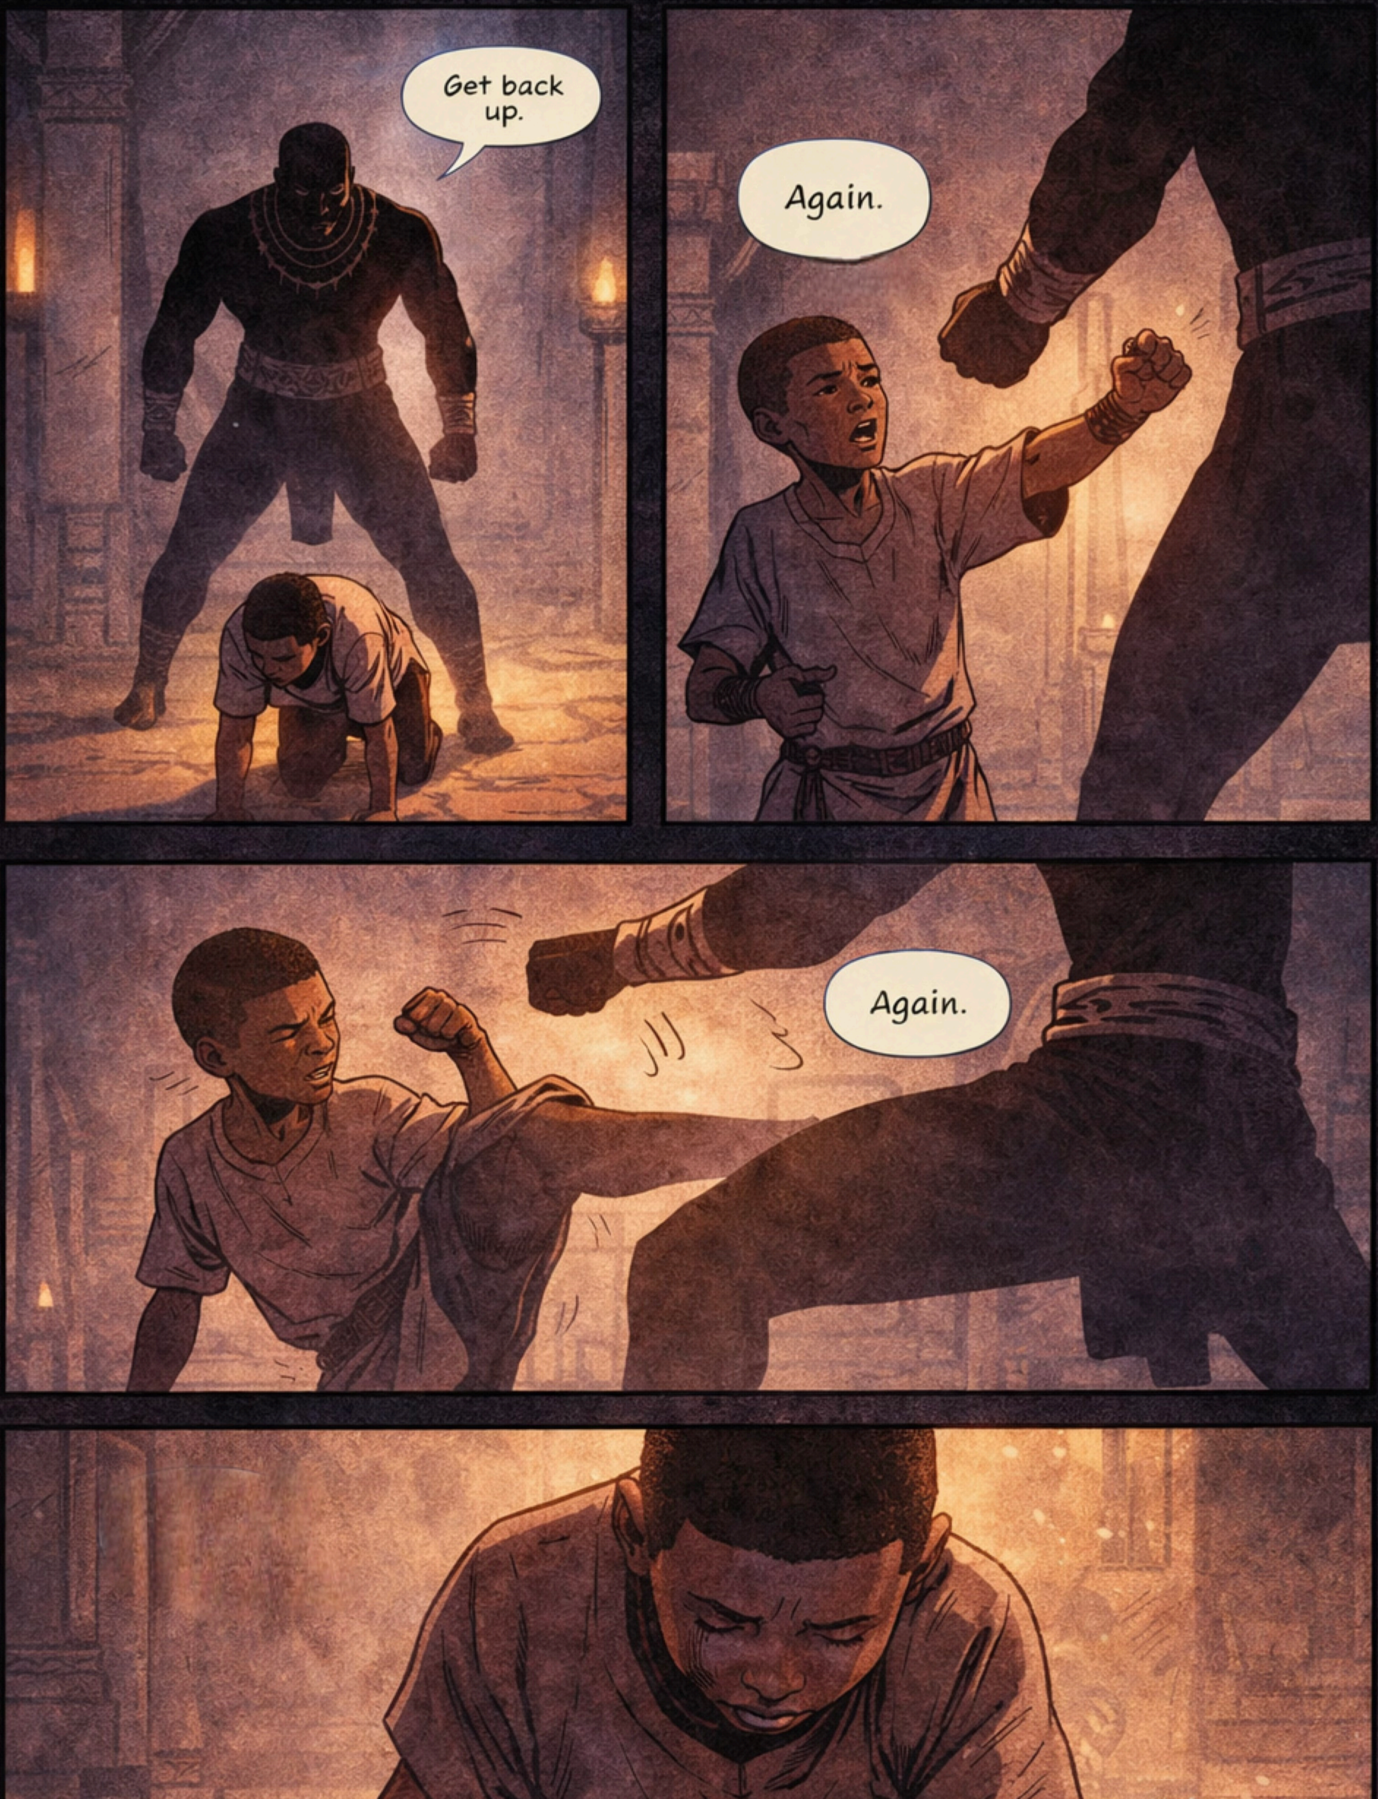
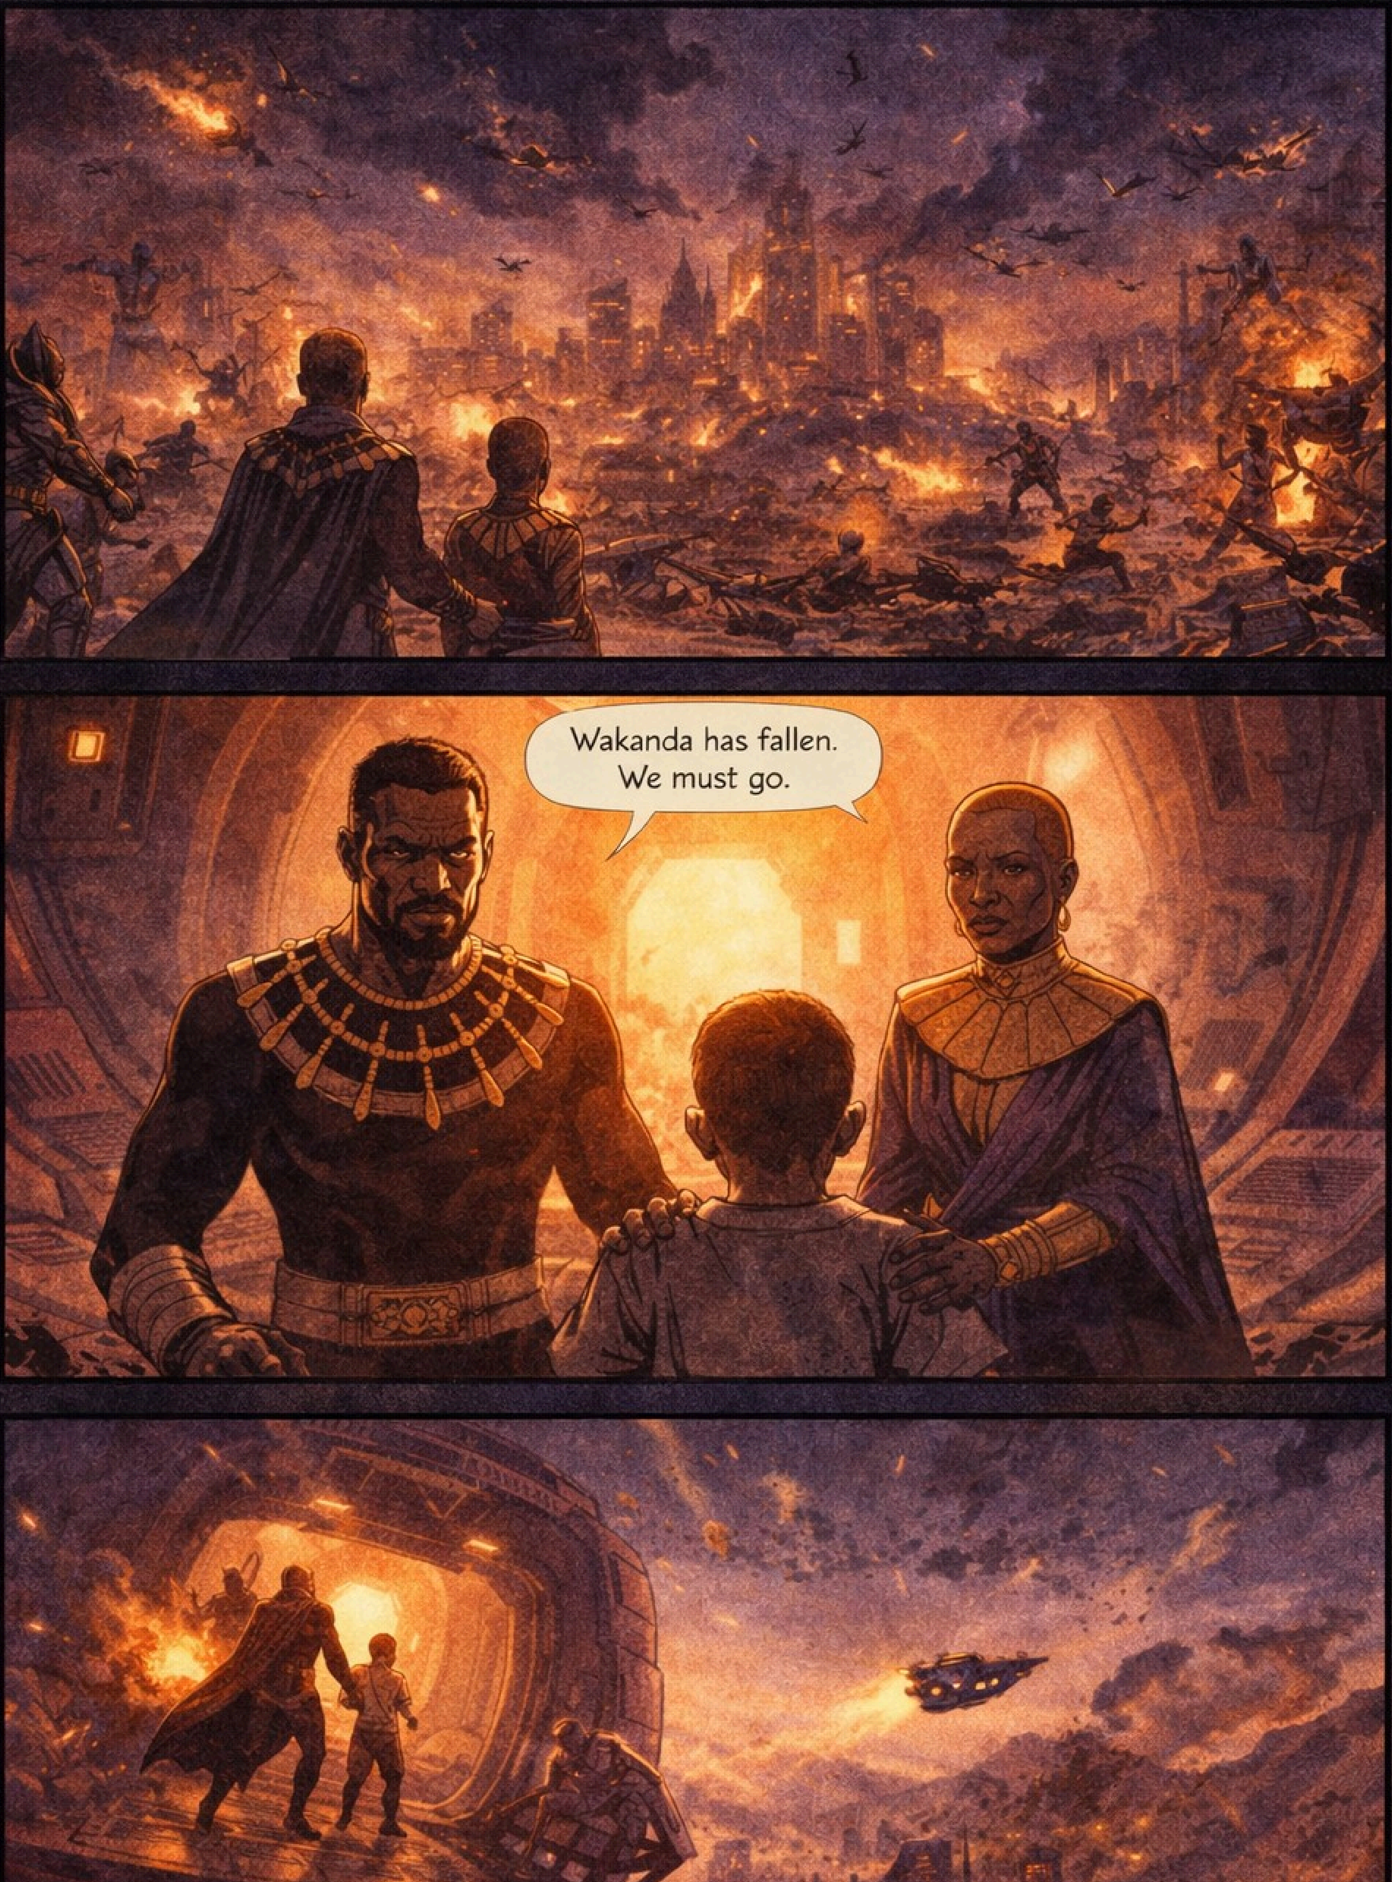
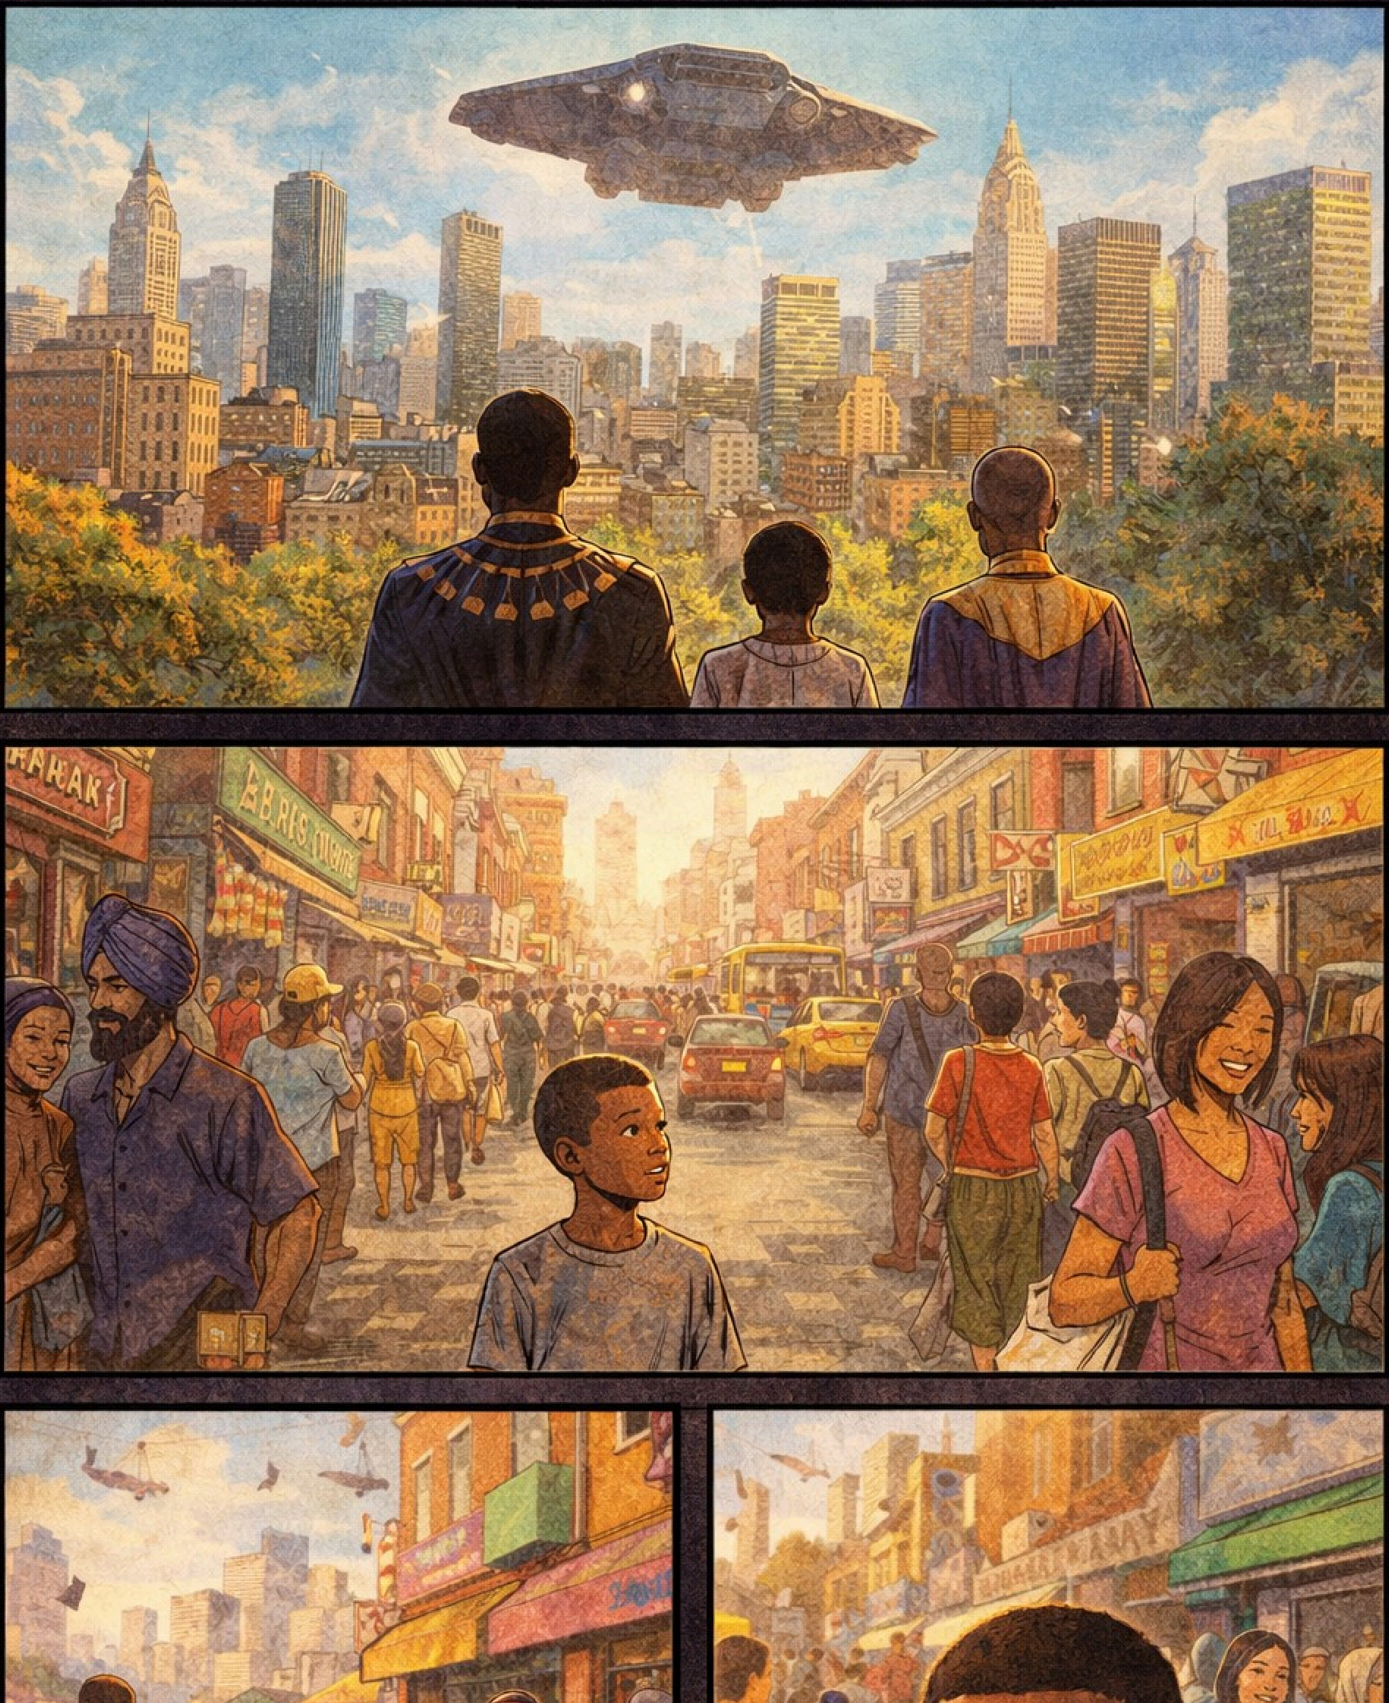
Before... everything meant something.



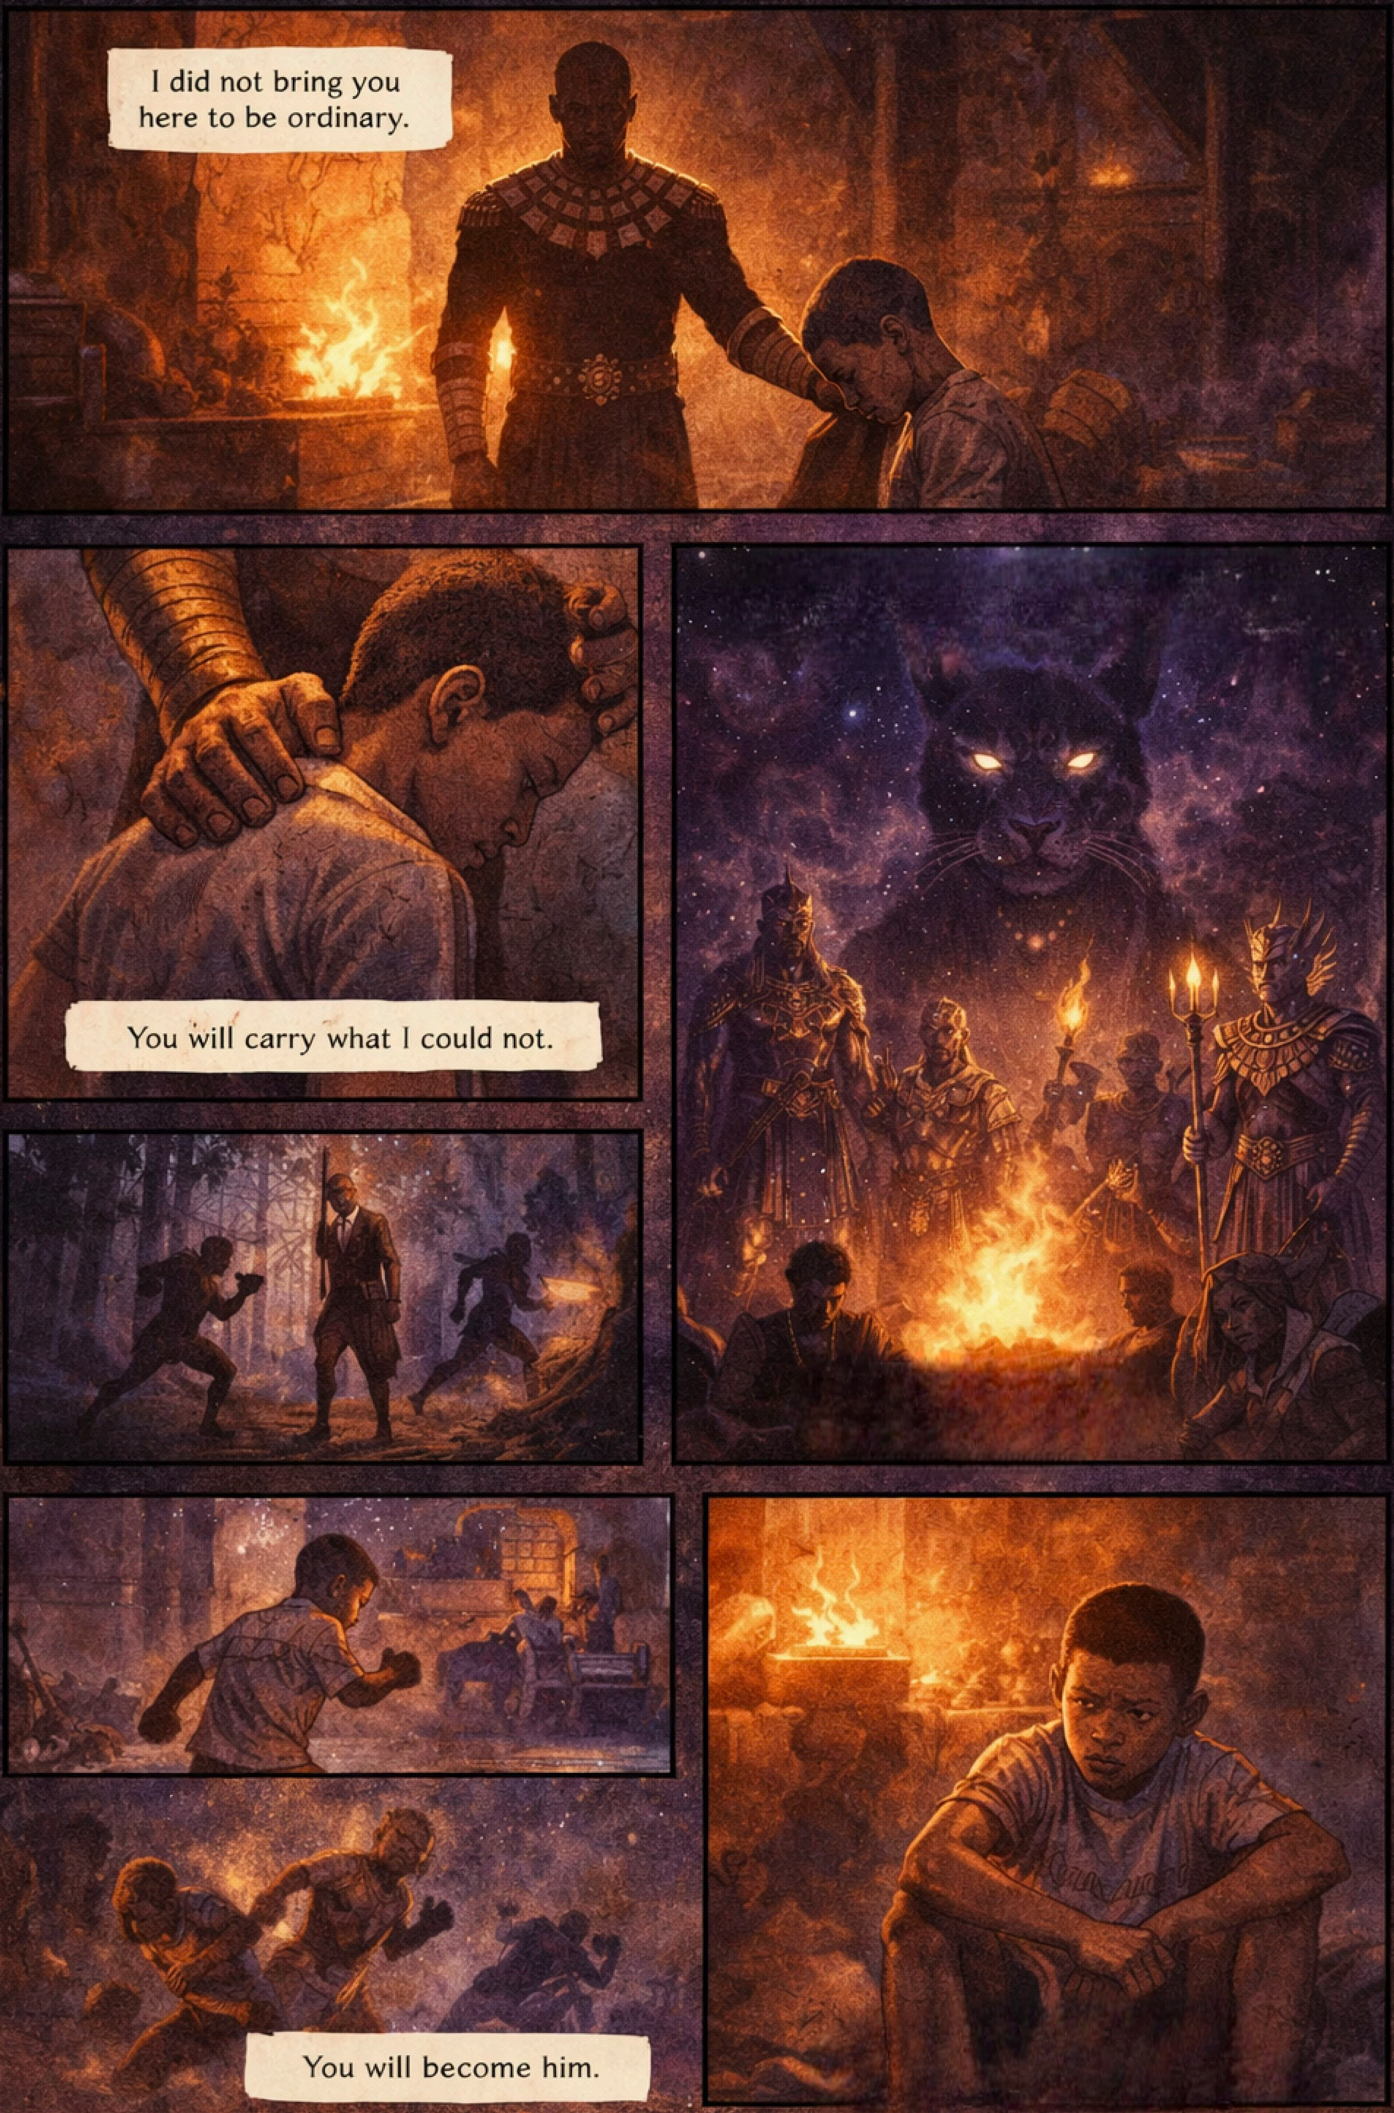
Get back up.
Again.
Again.
Ha...



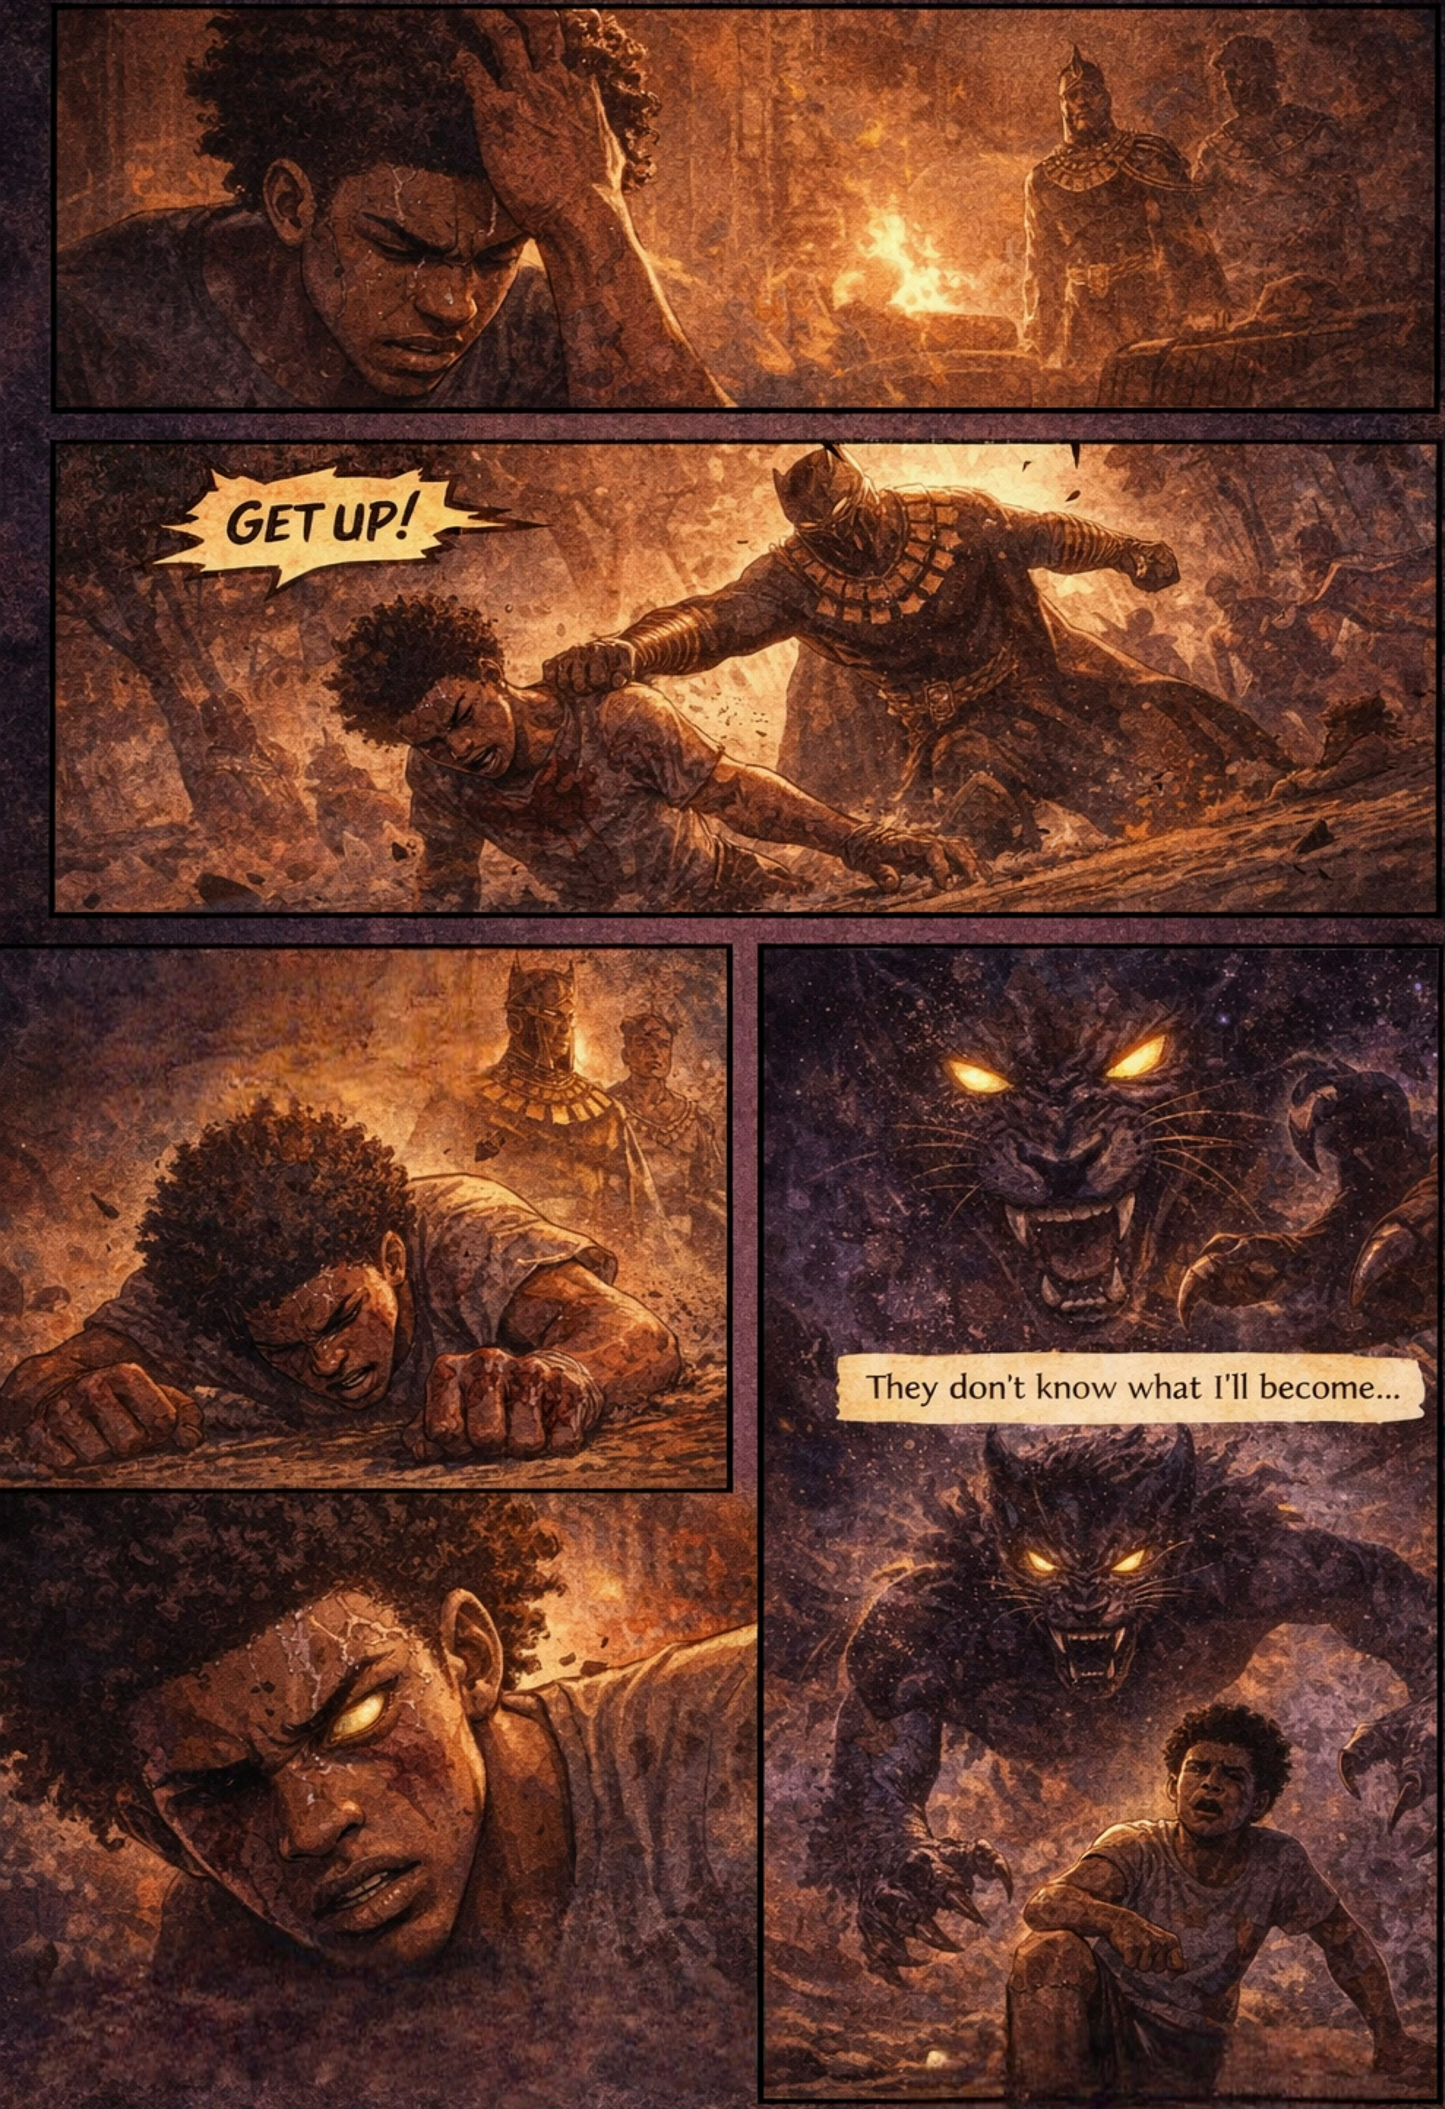
Wakanda has fallen. We must go.



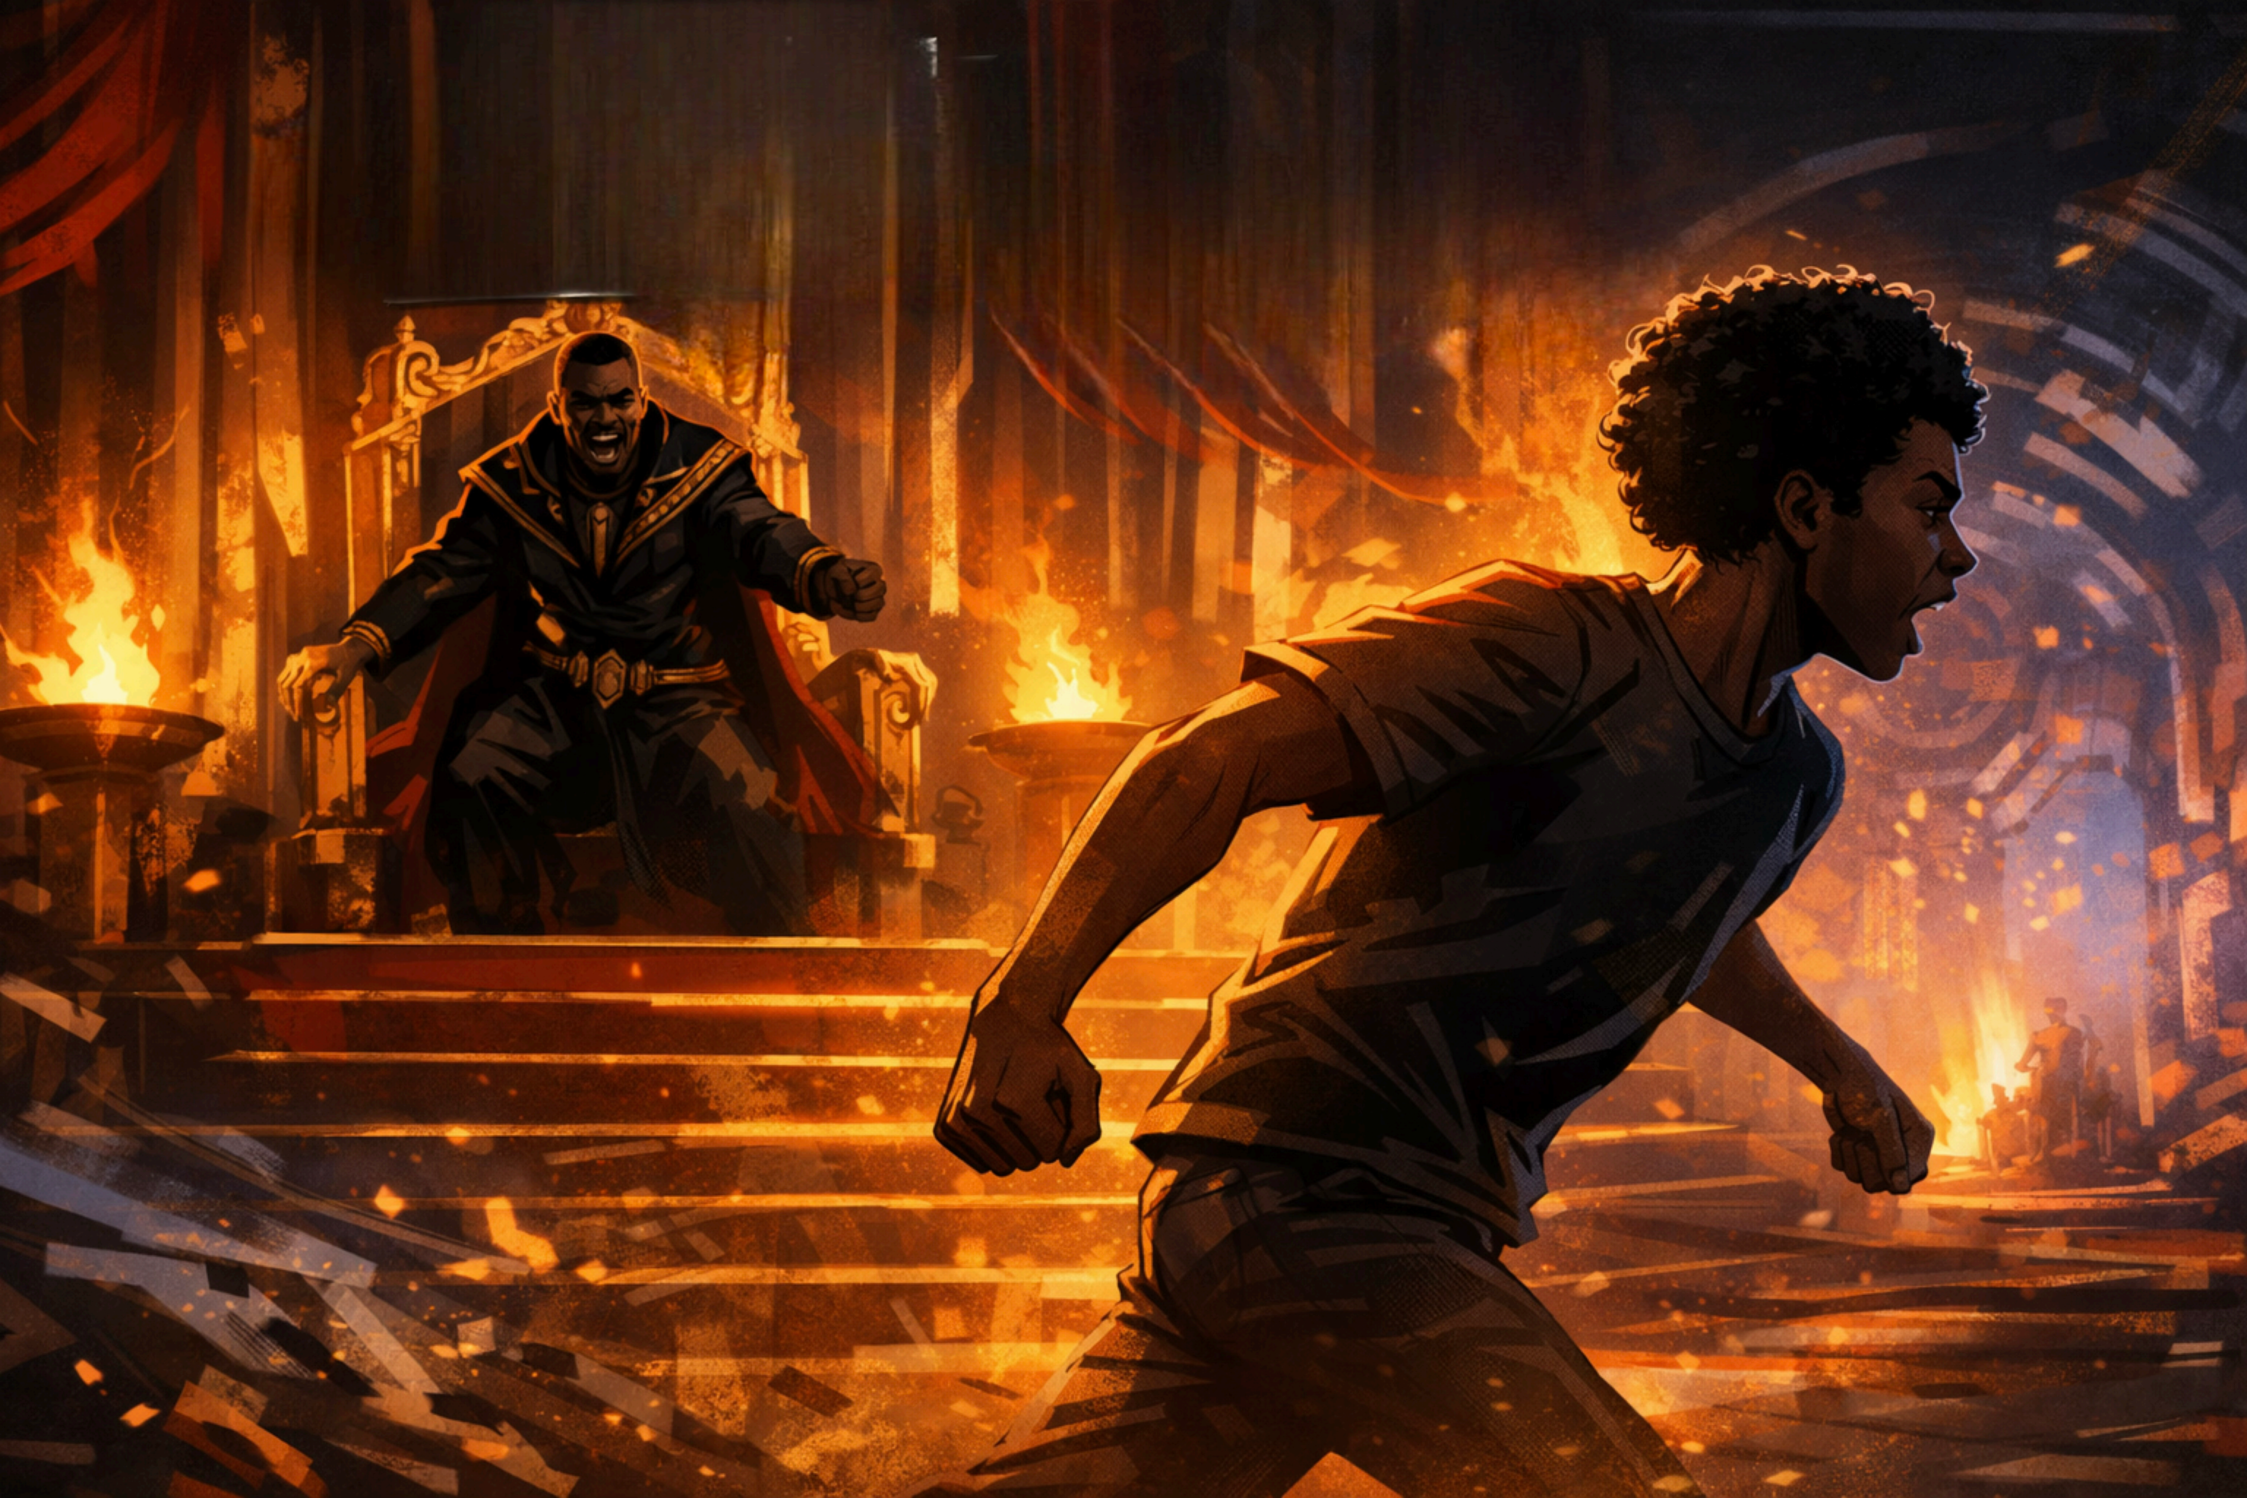
HARAK

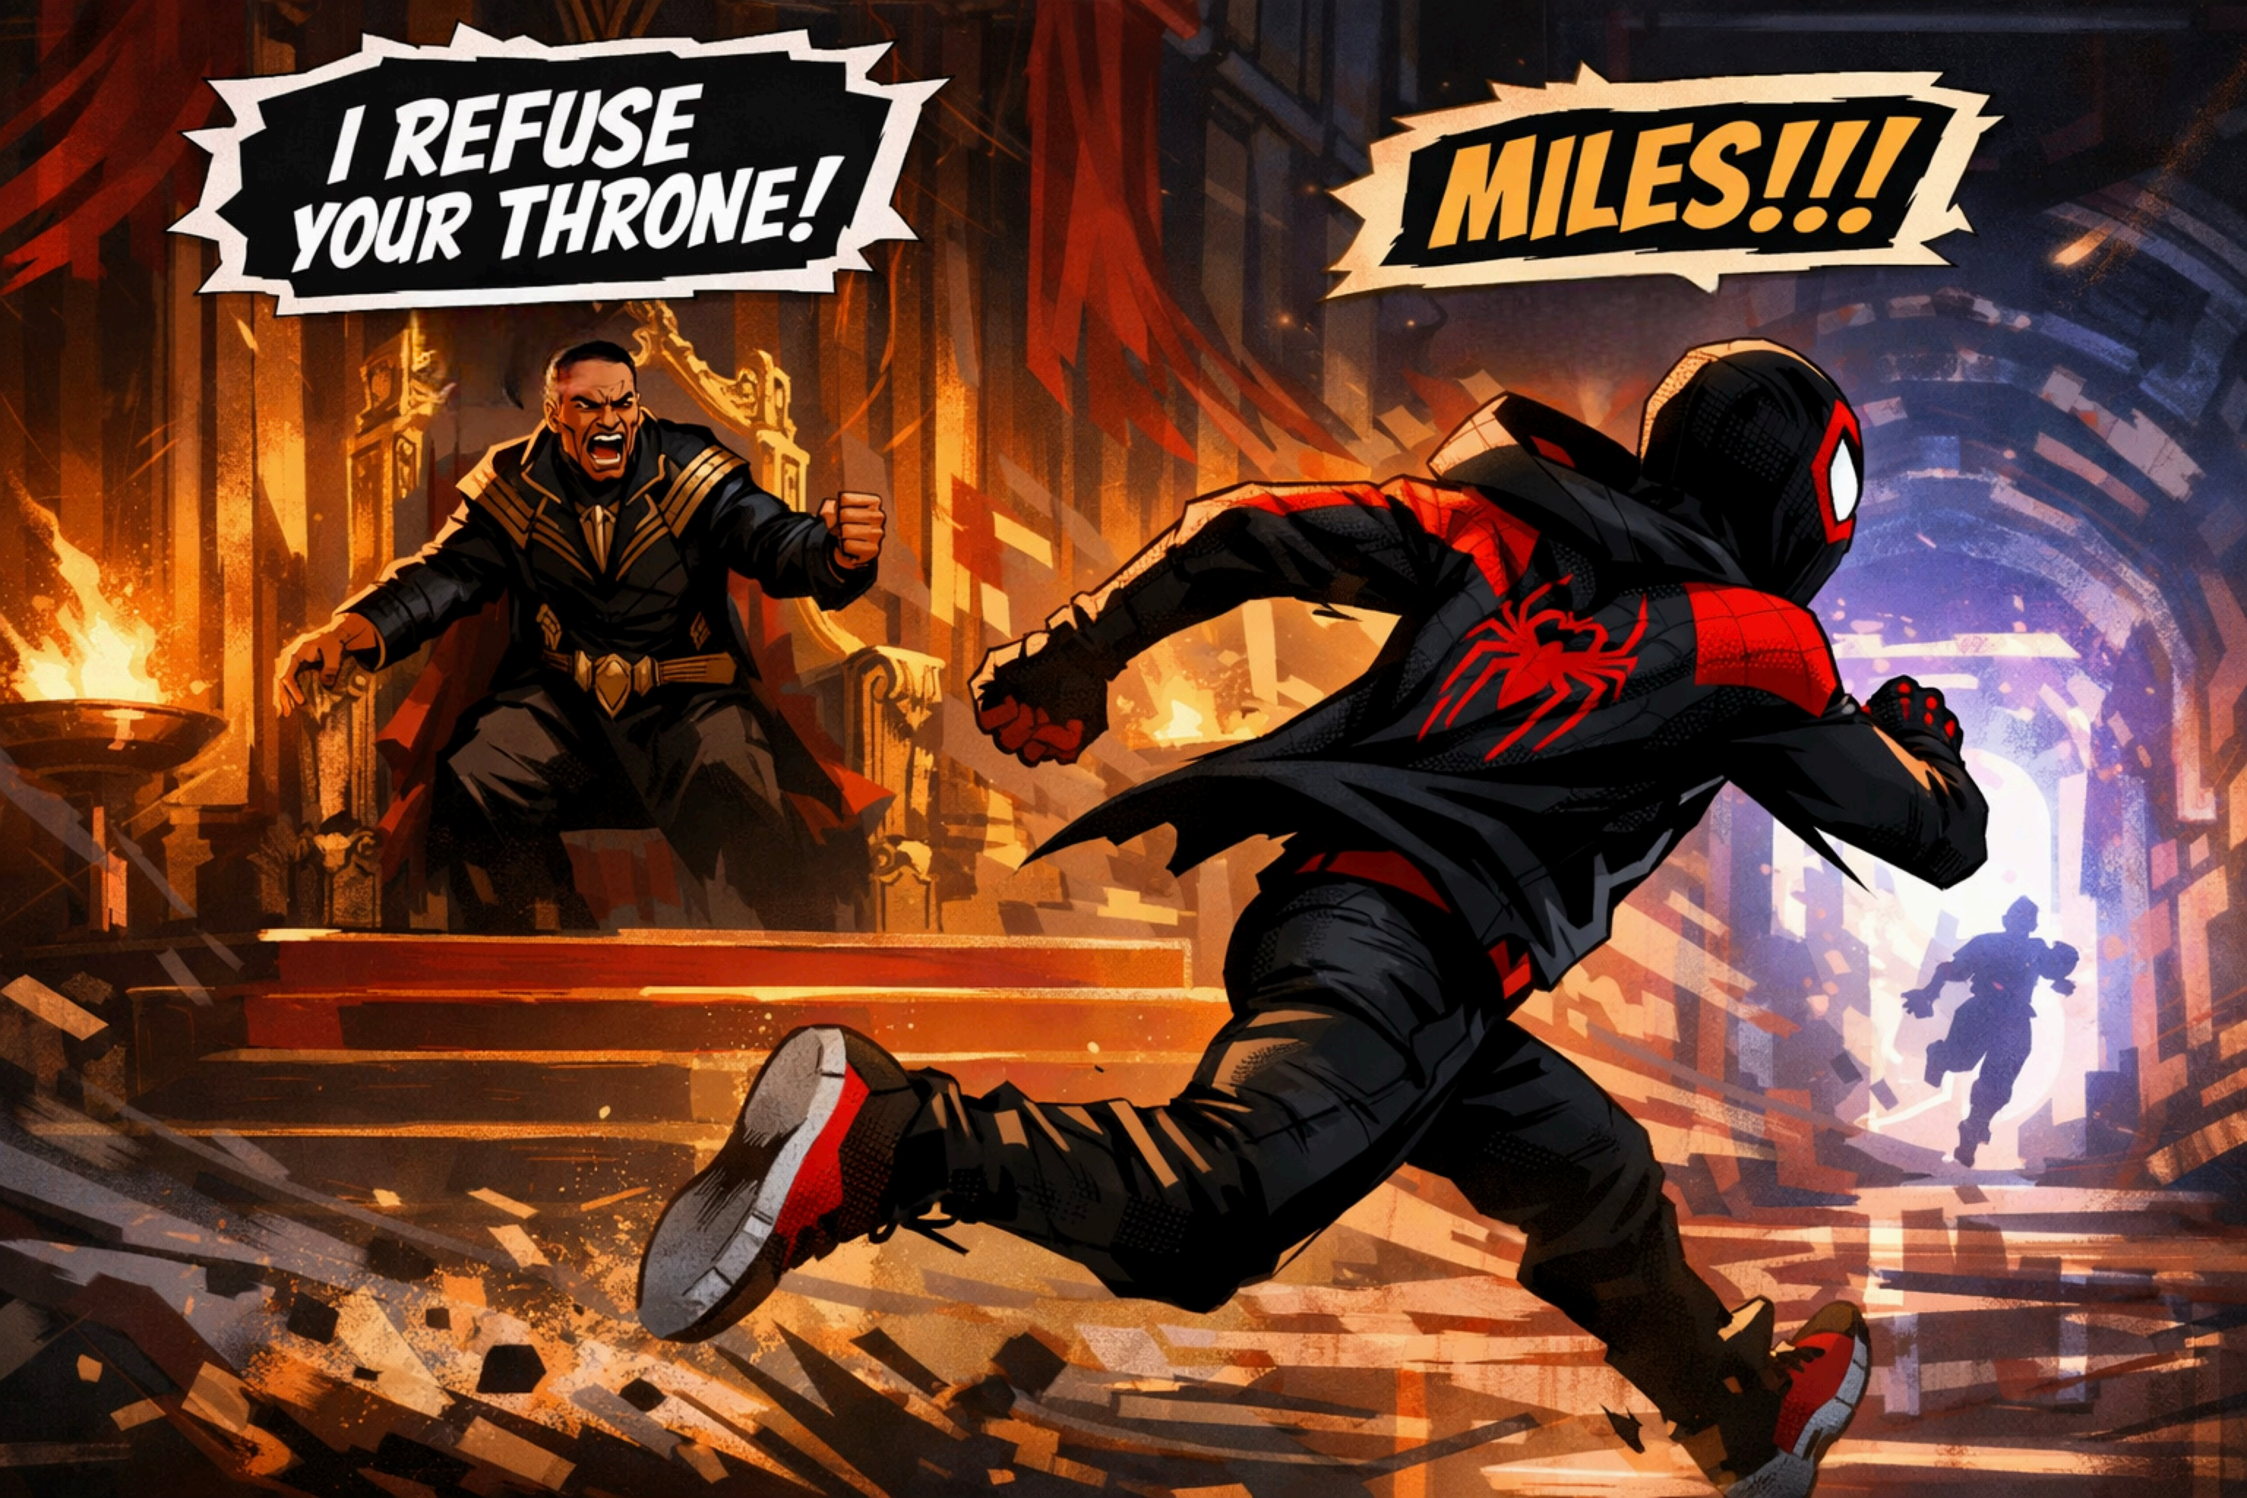


I did not bring you here to be ordinary.
You will carry what I could not.
You will become him.

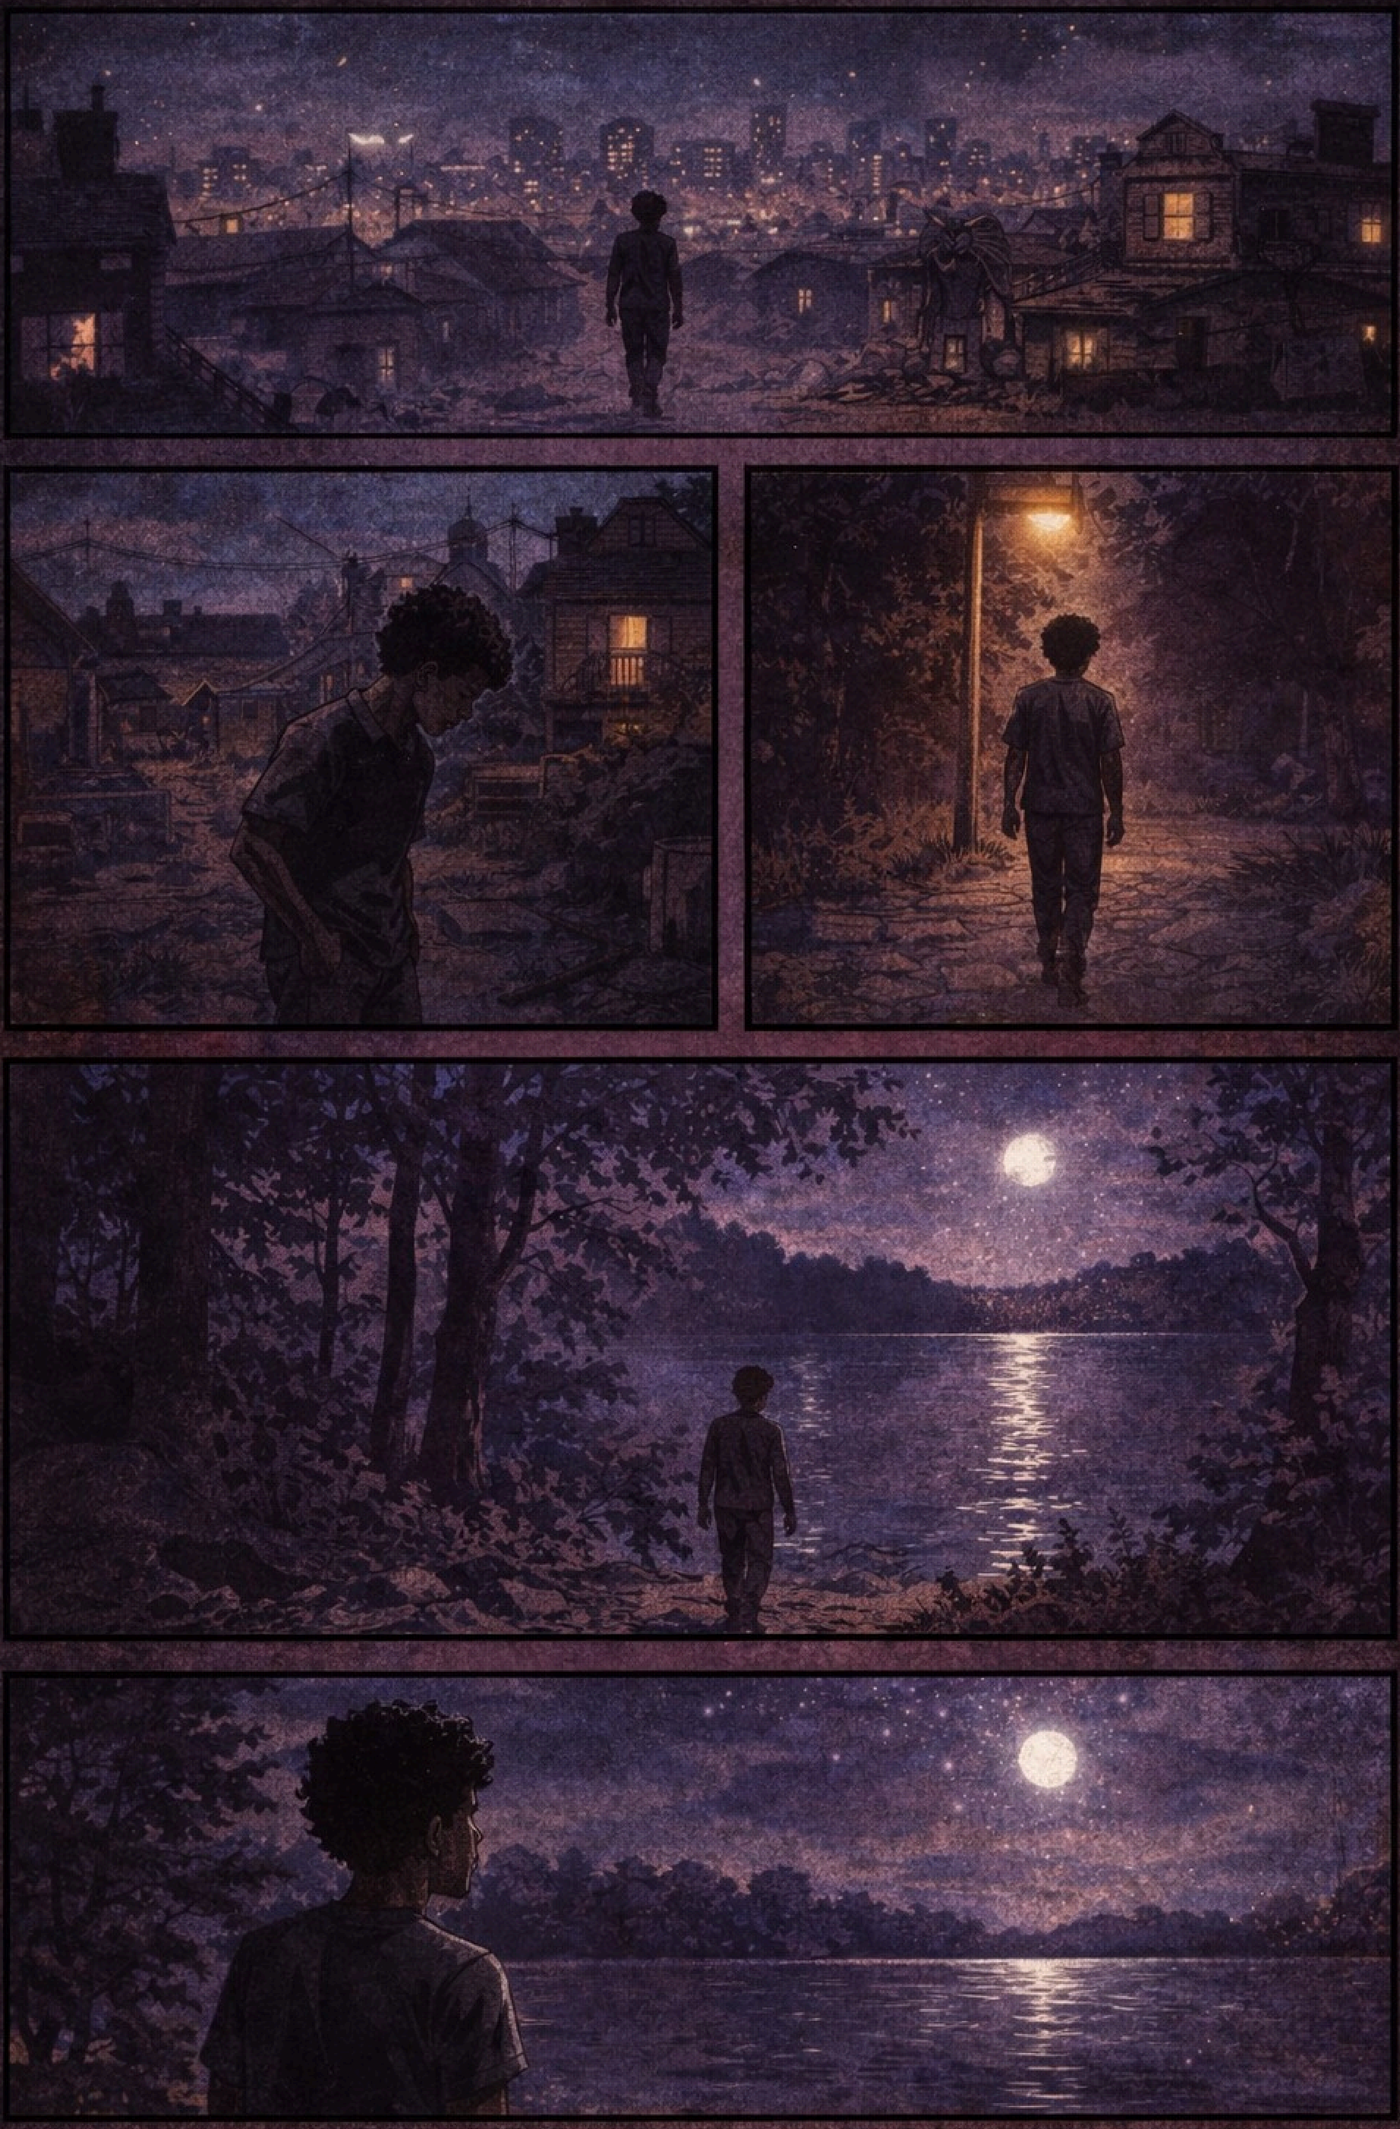


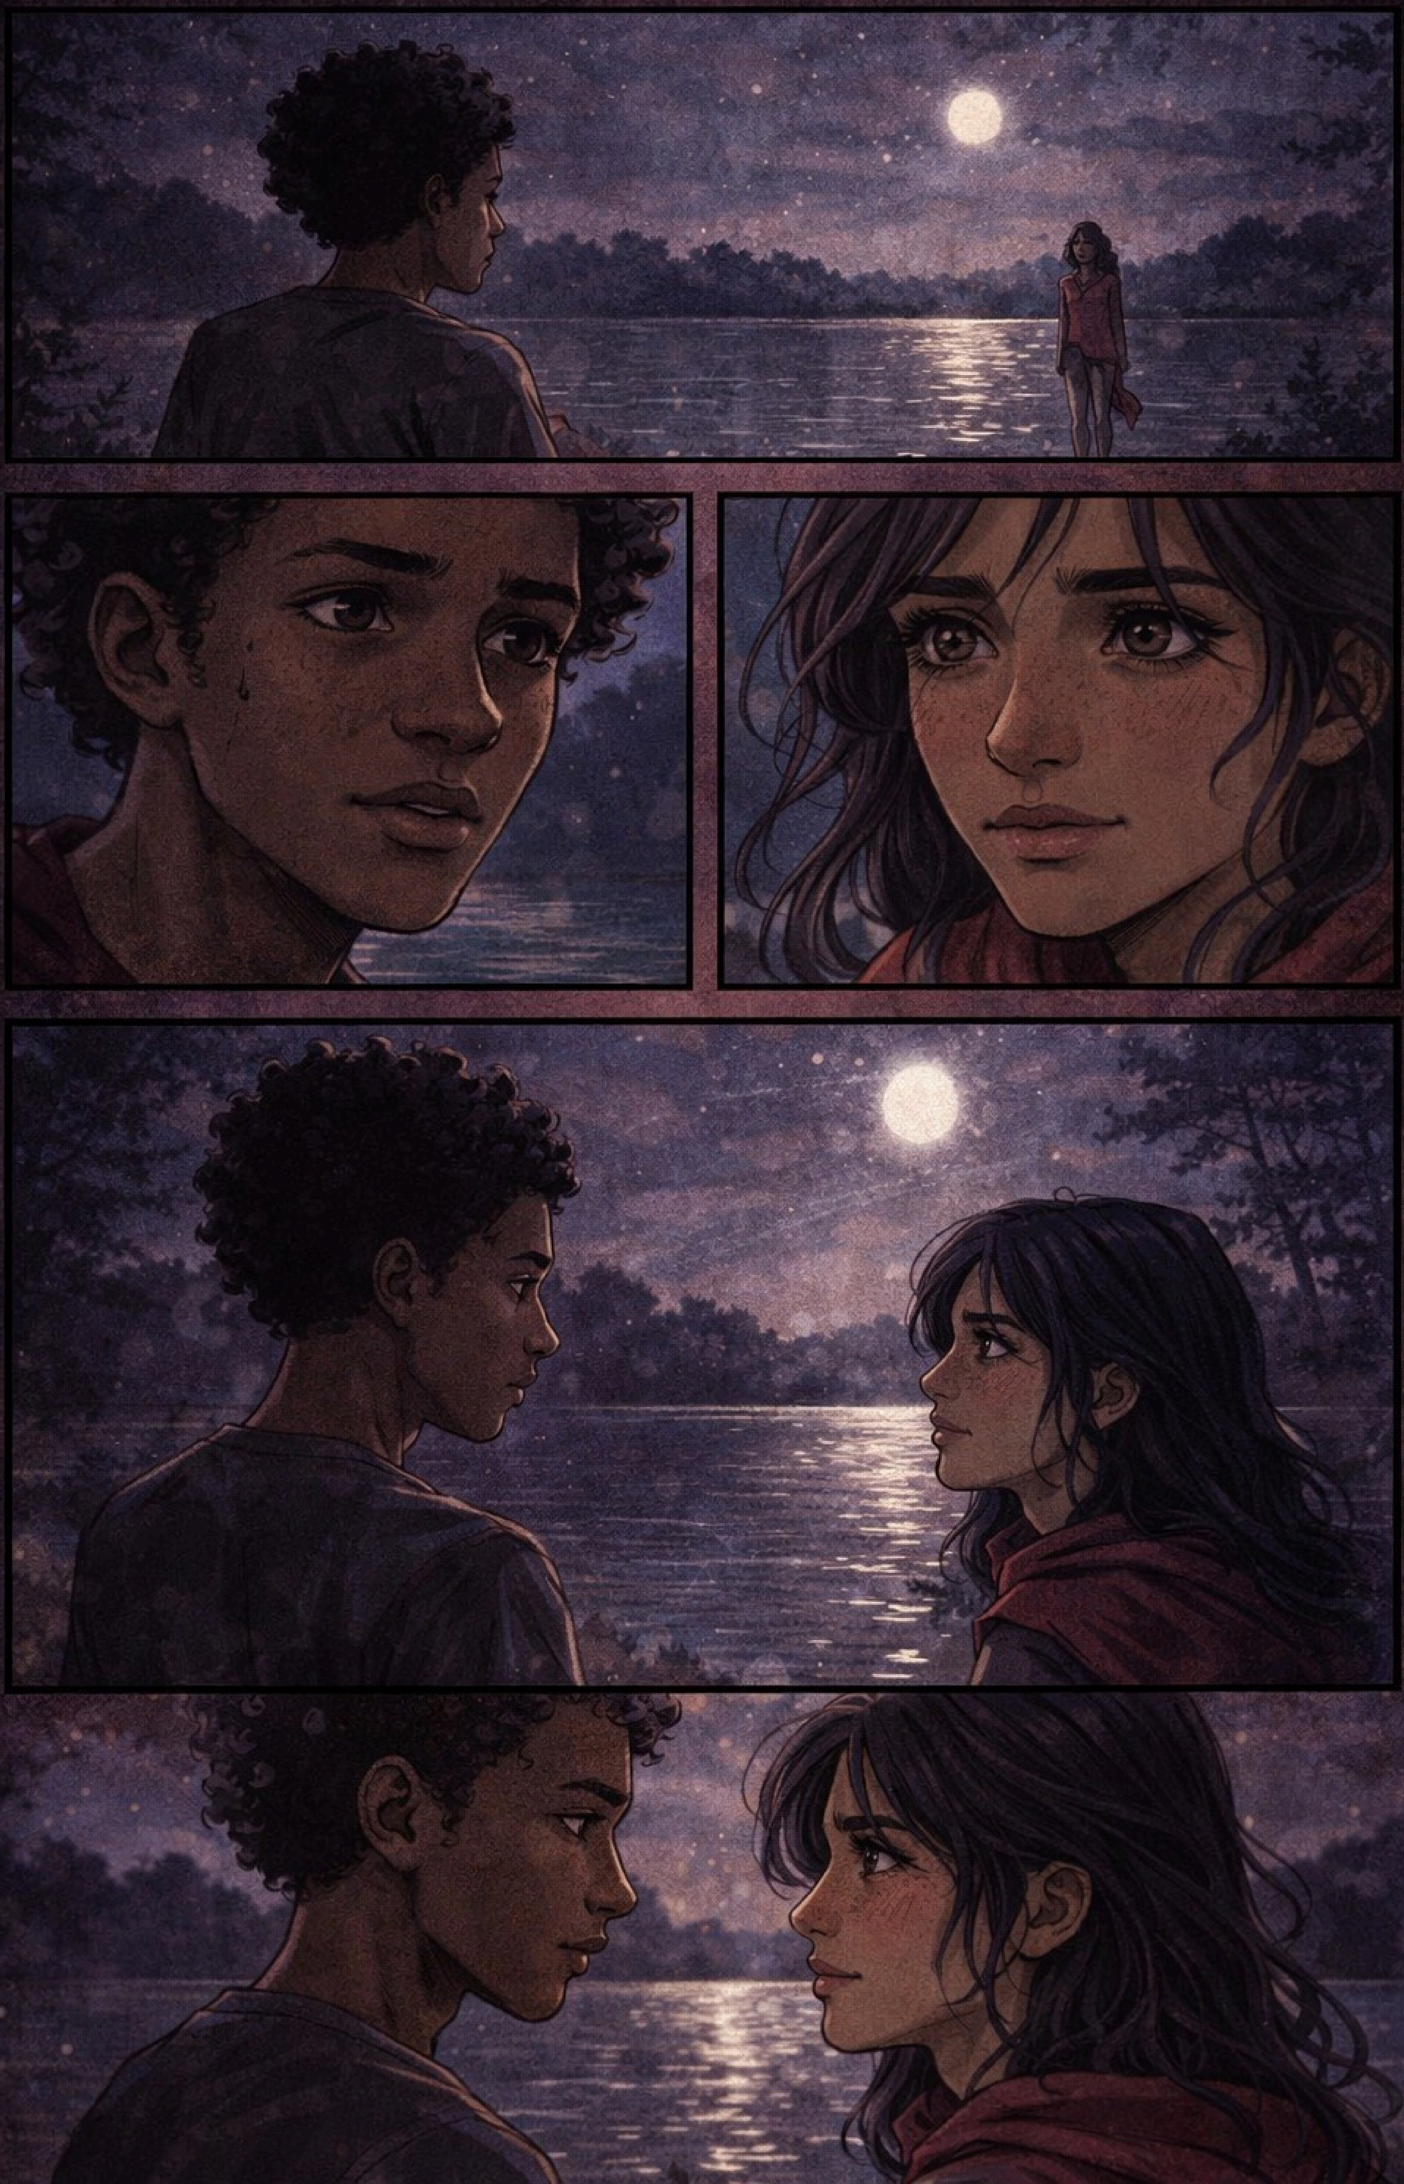
GET UP!
They don't know what I'll become...

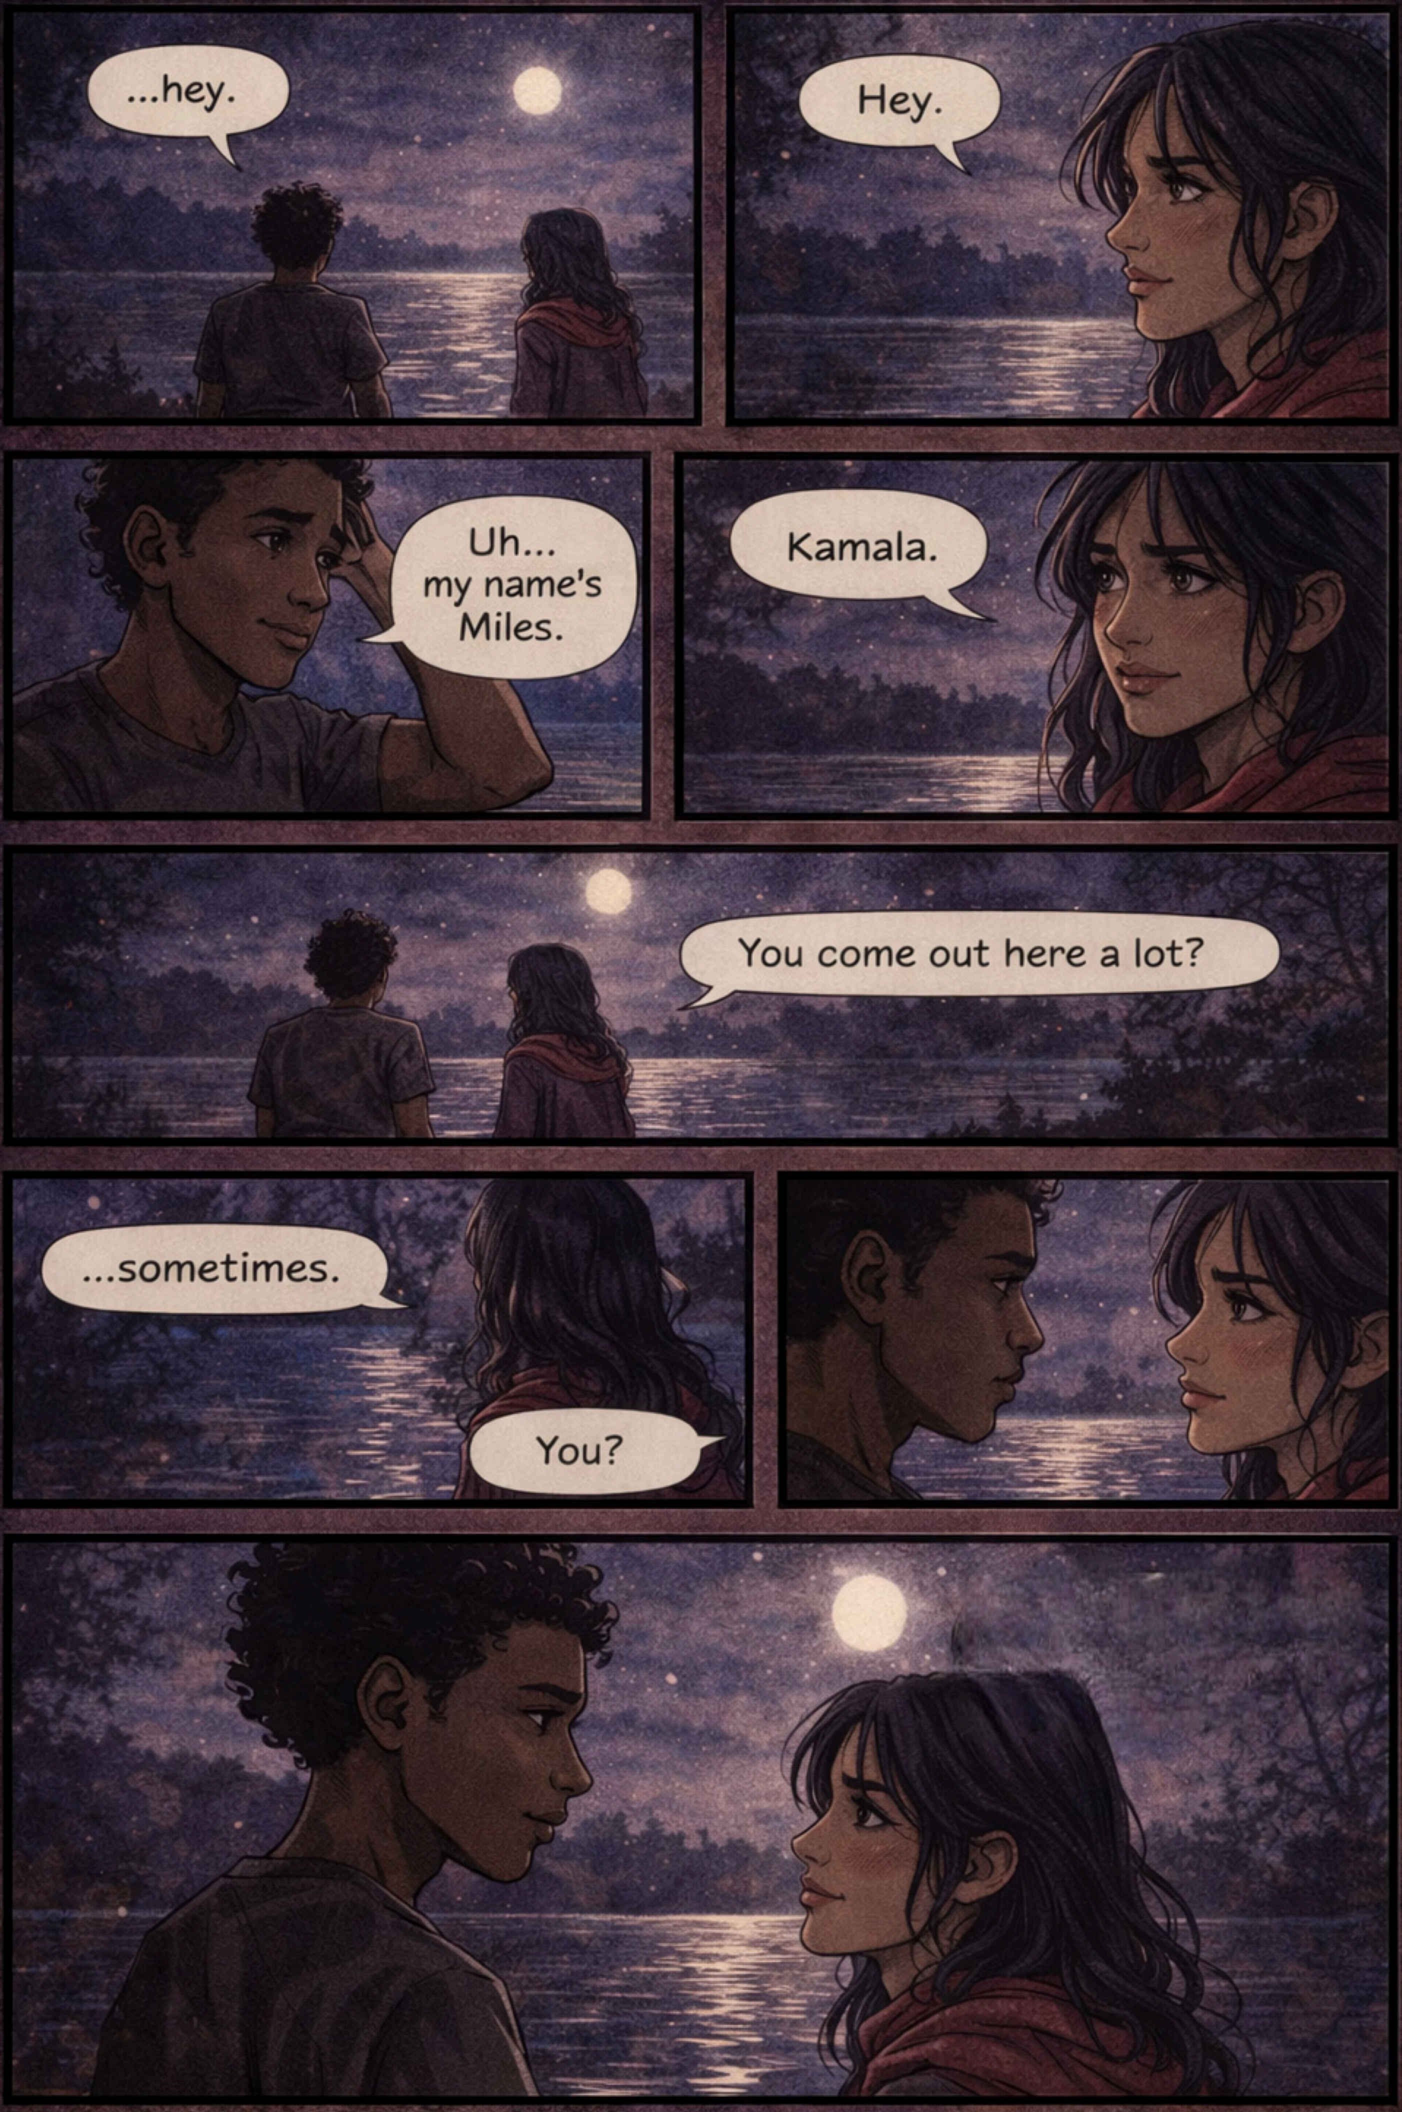




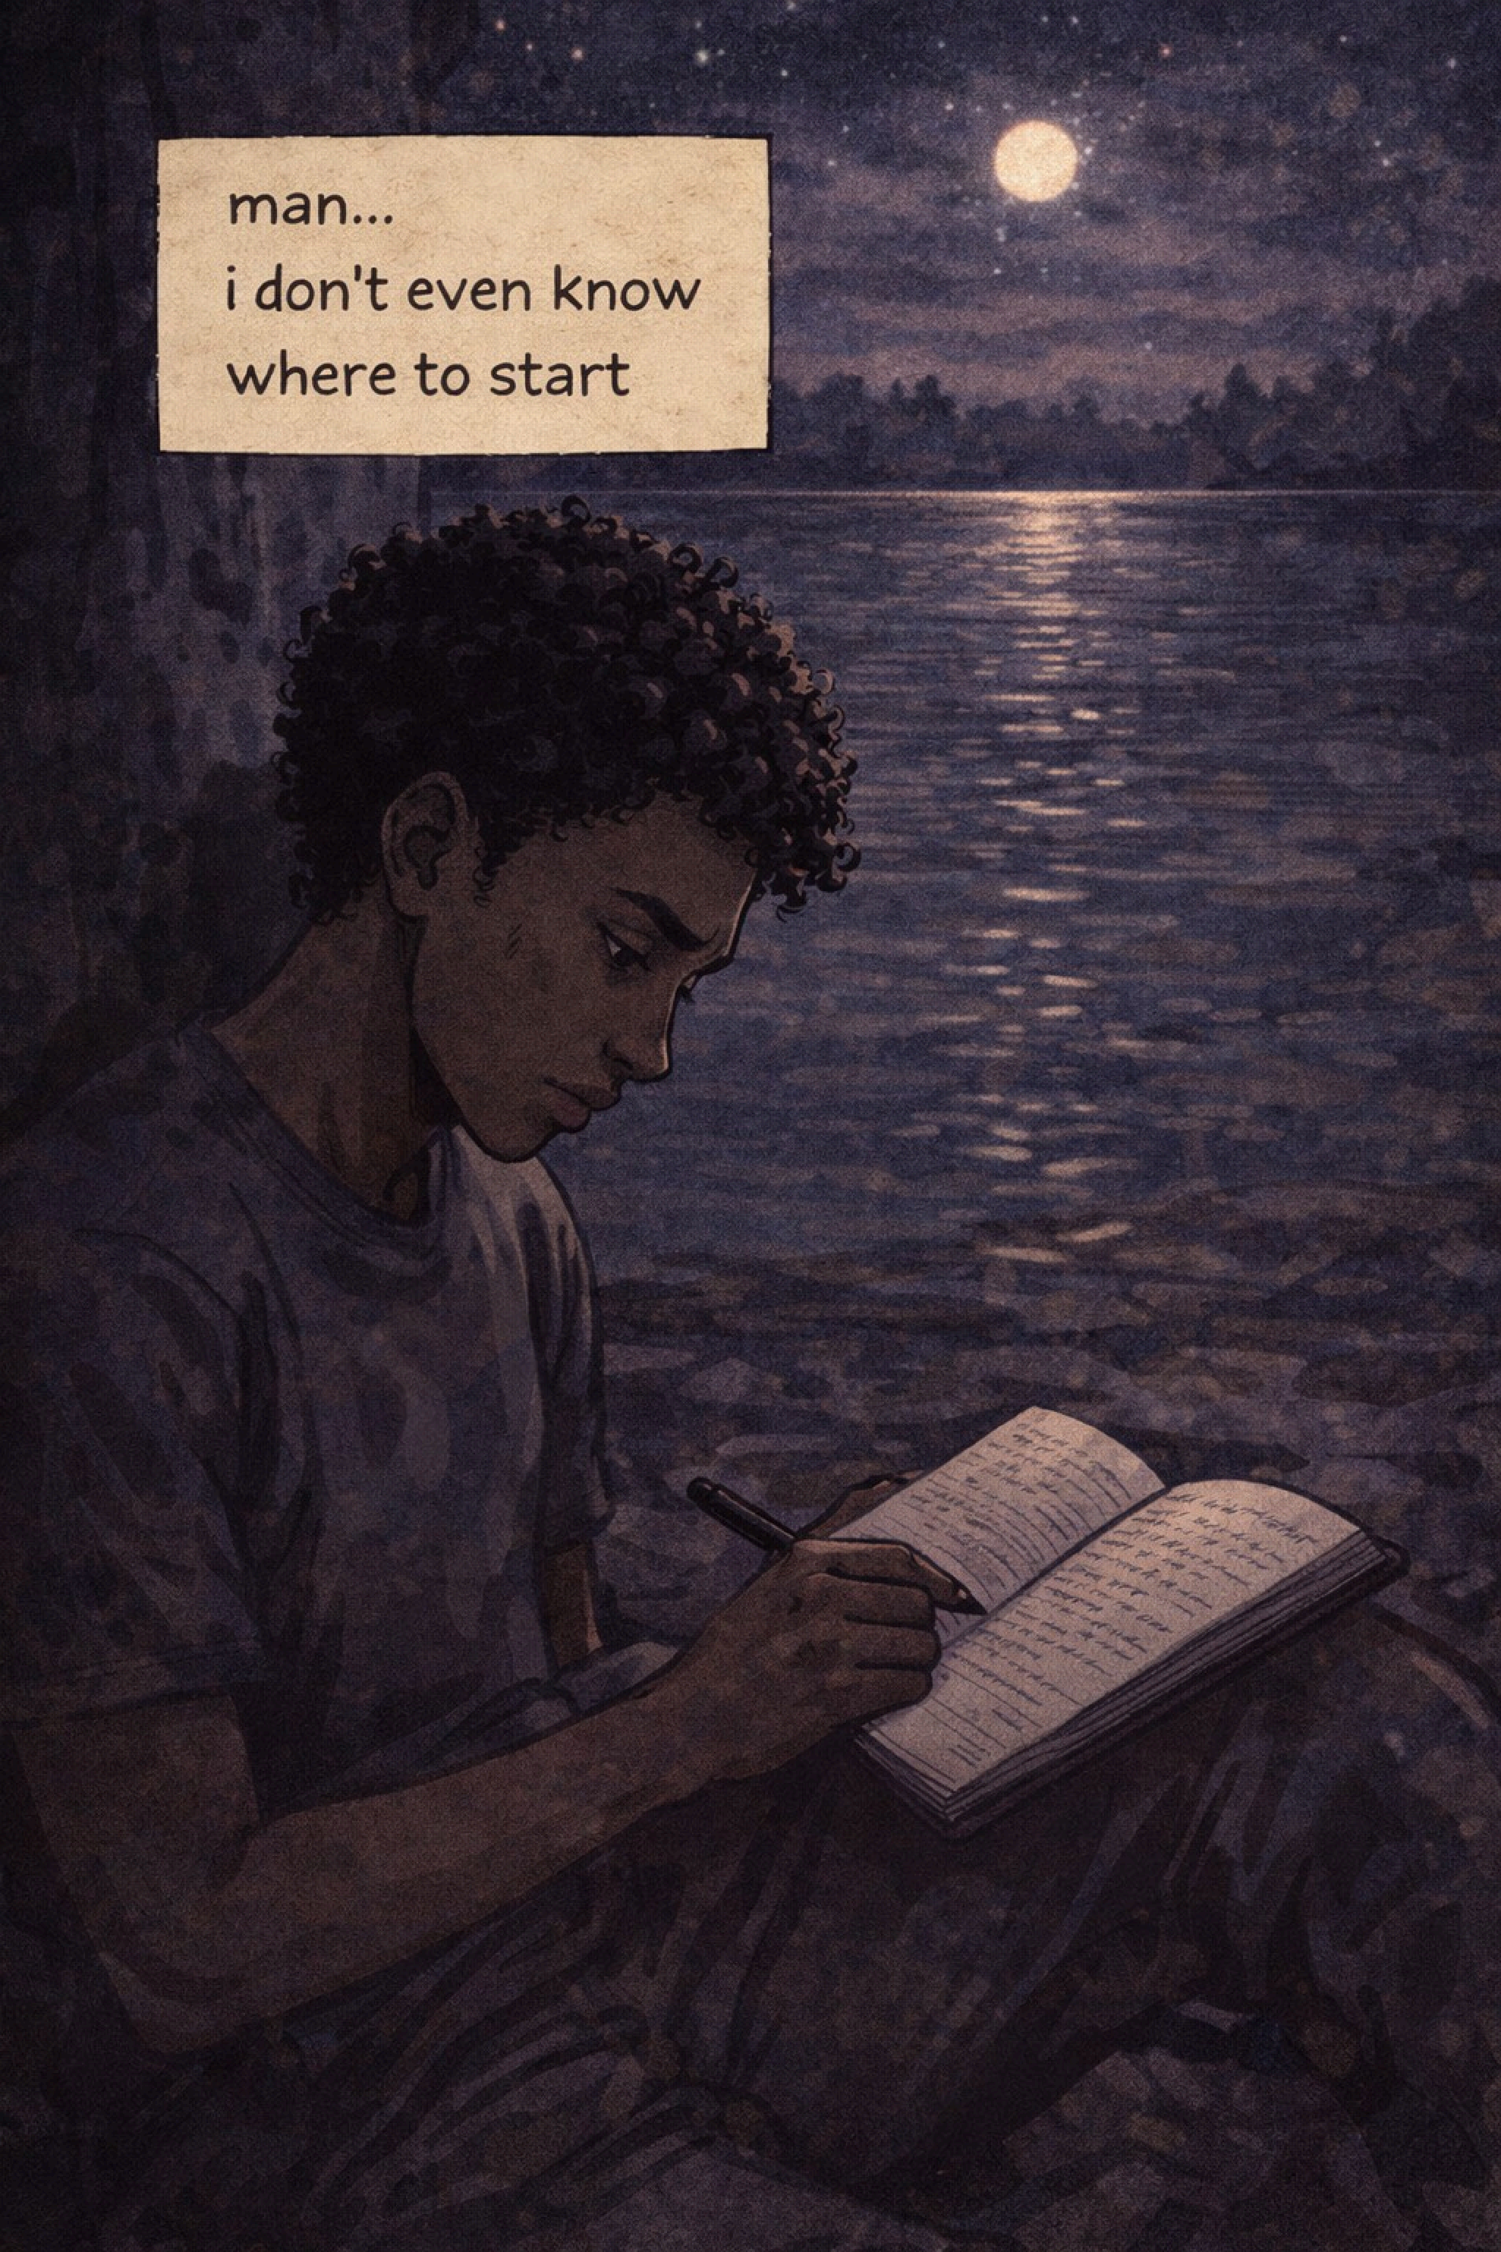
I REFUSE YOUR THRONE!
MILES!!!



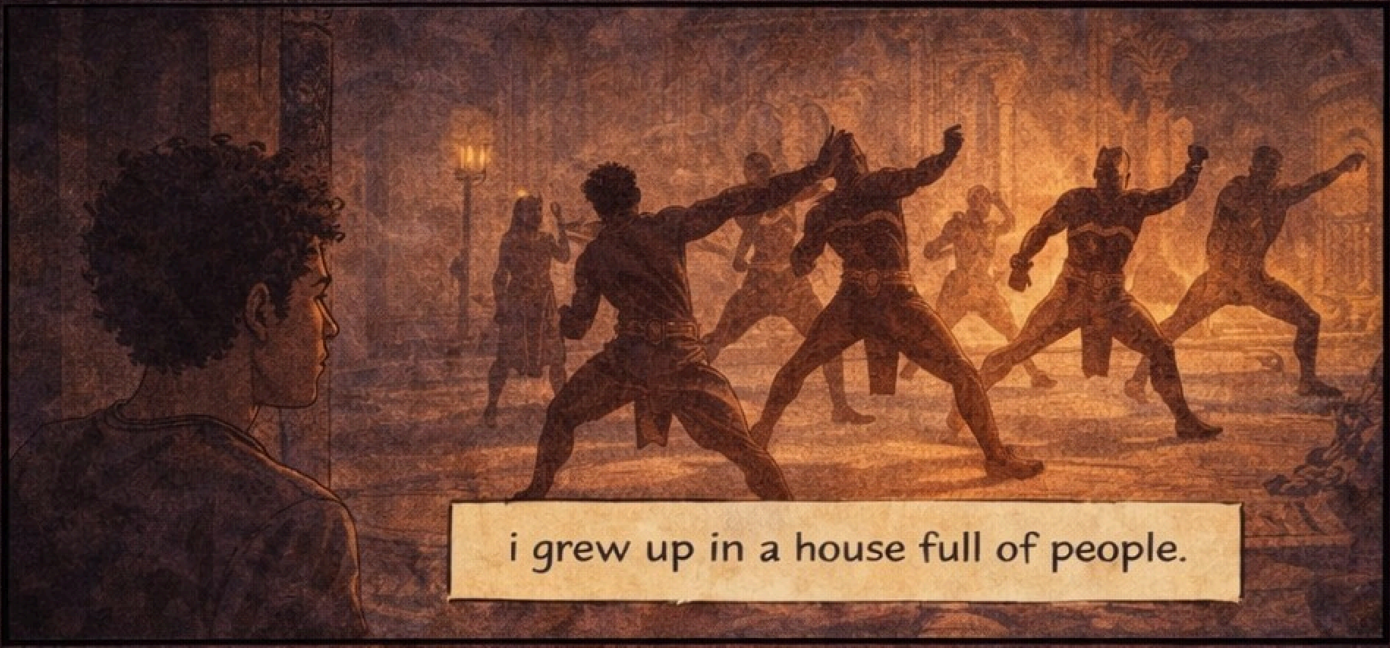




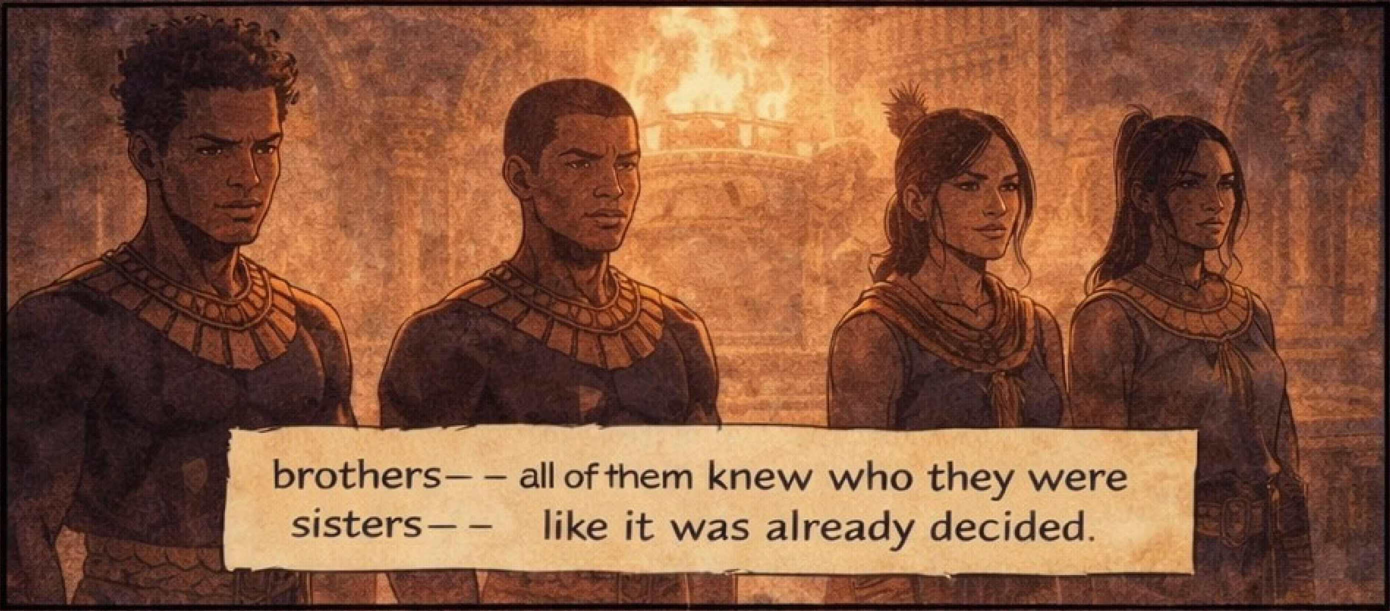
...hey.
Hey.
Uh... my name's Miles.
Kamala.
You come out here a lot?
...sometimes.
You?



man...
i don't even know
where to start



i grew up in a house full of people.



brothers— – all of them knew who they were sisters— – like it was already decided.

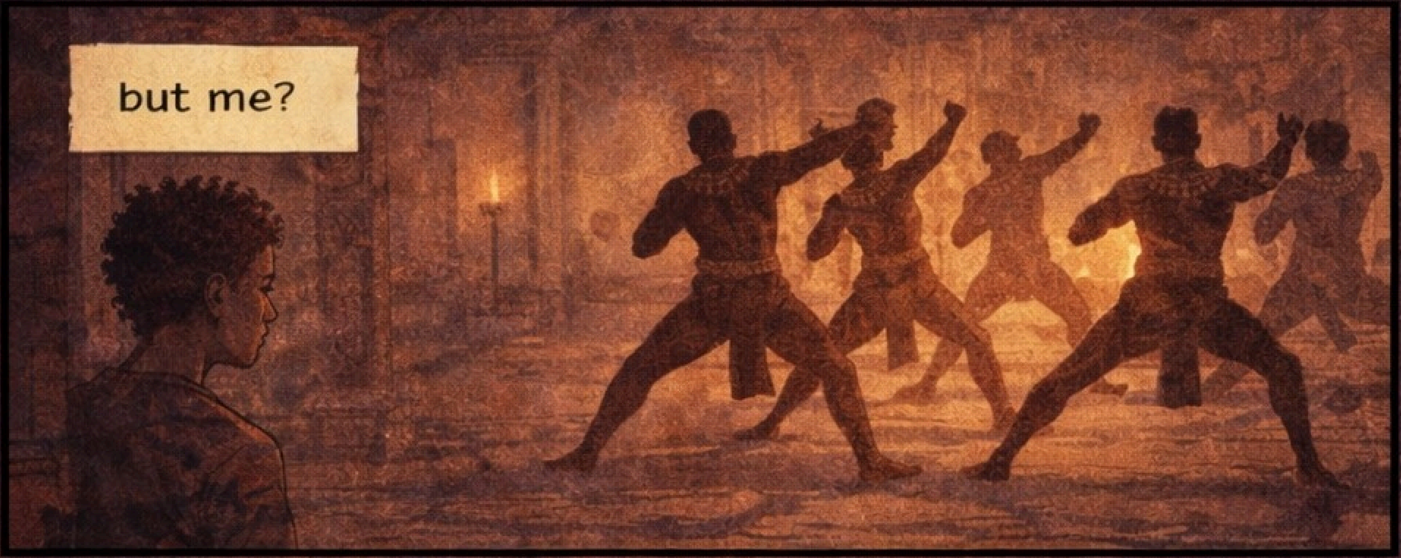
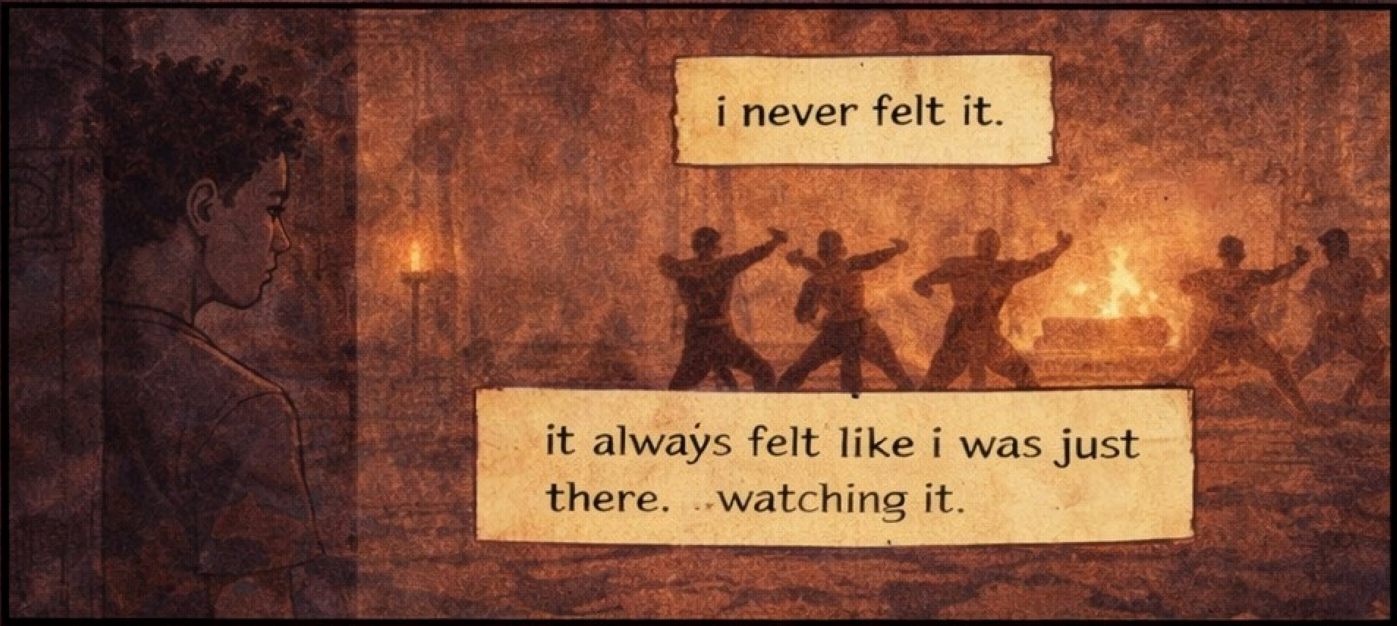
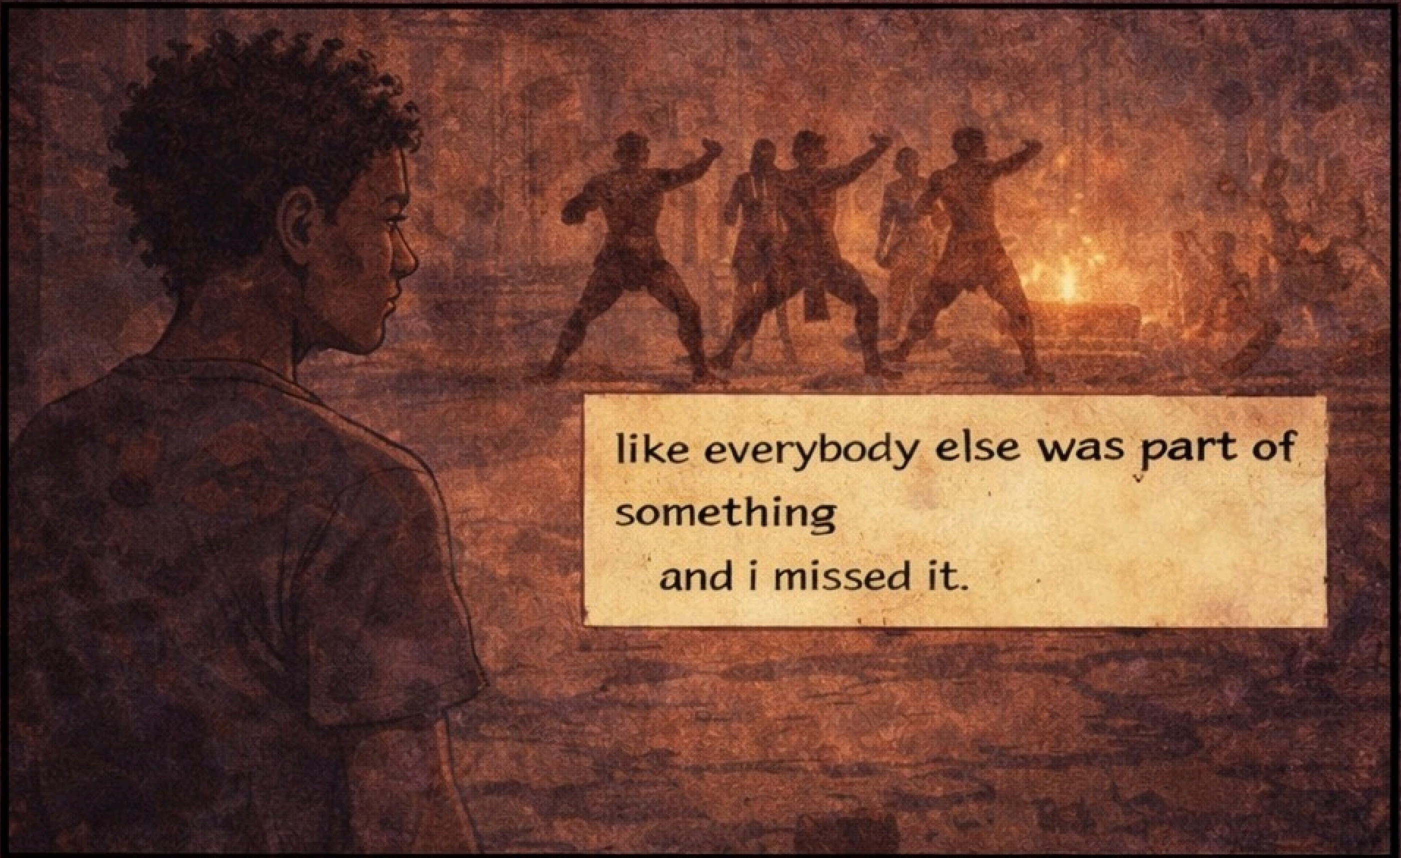
they followed it
like it made sense to them
like it belonged to them



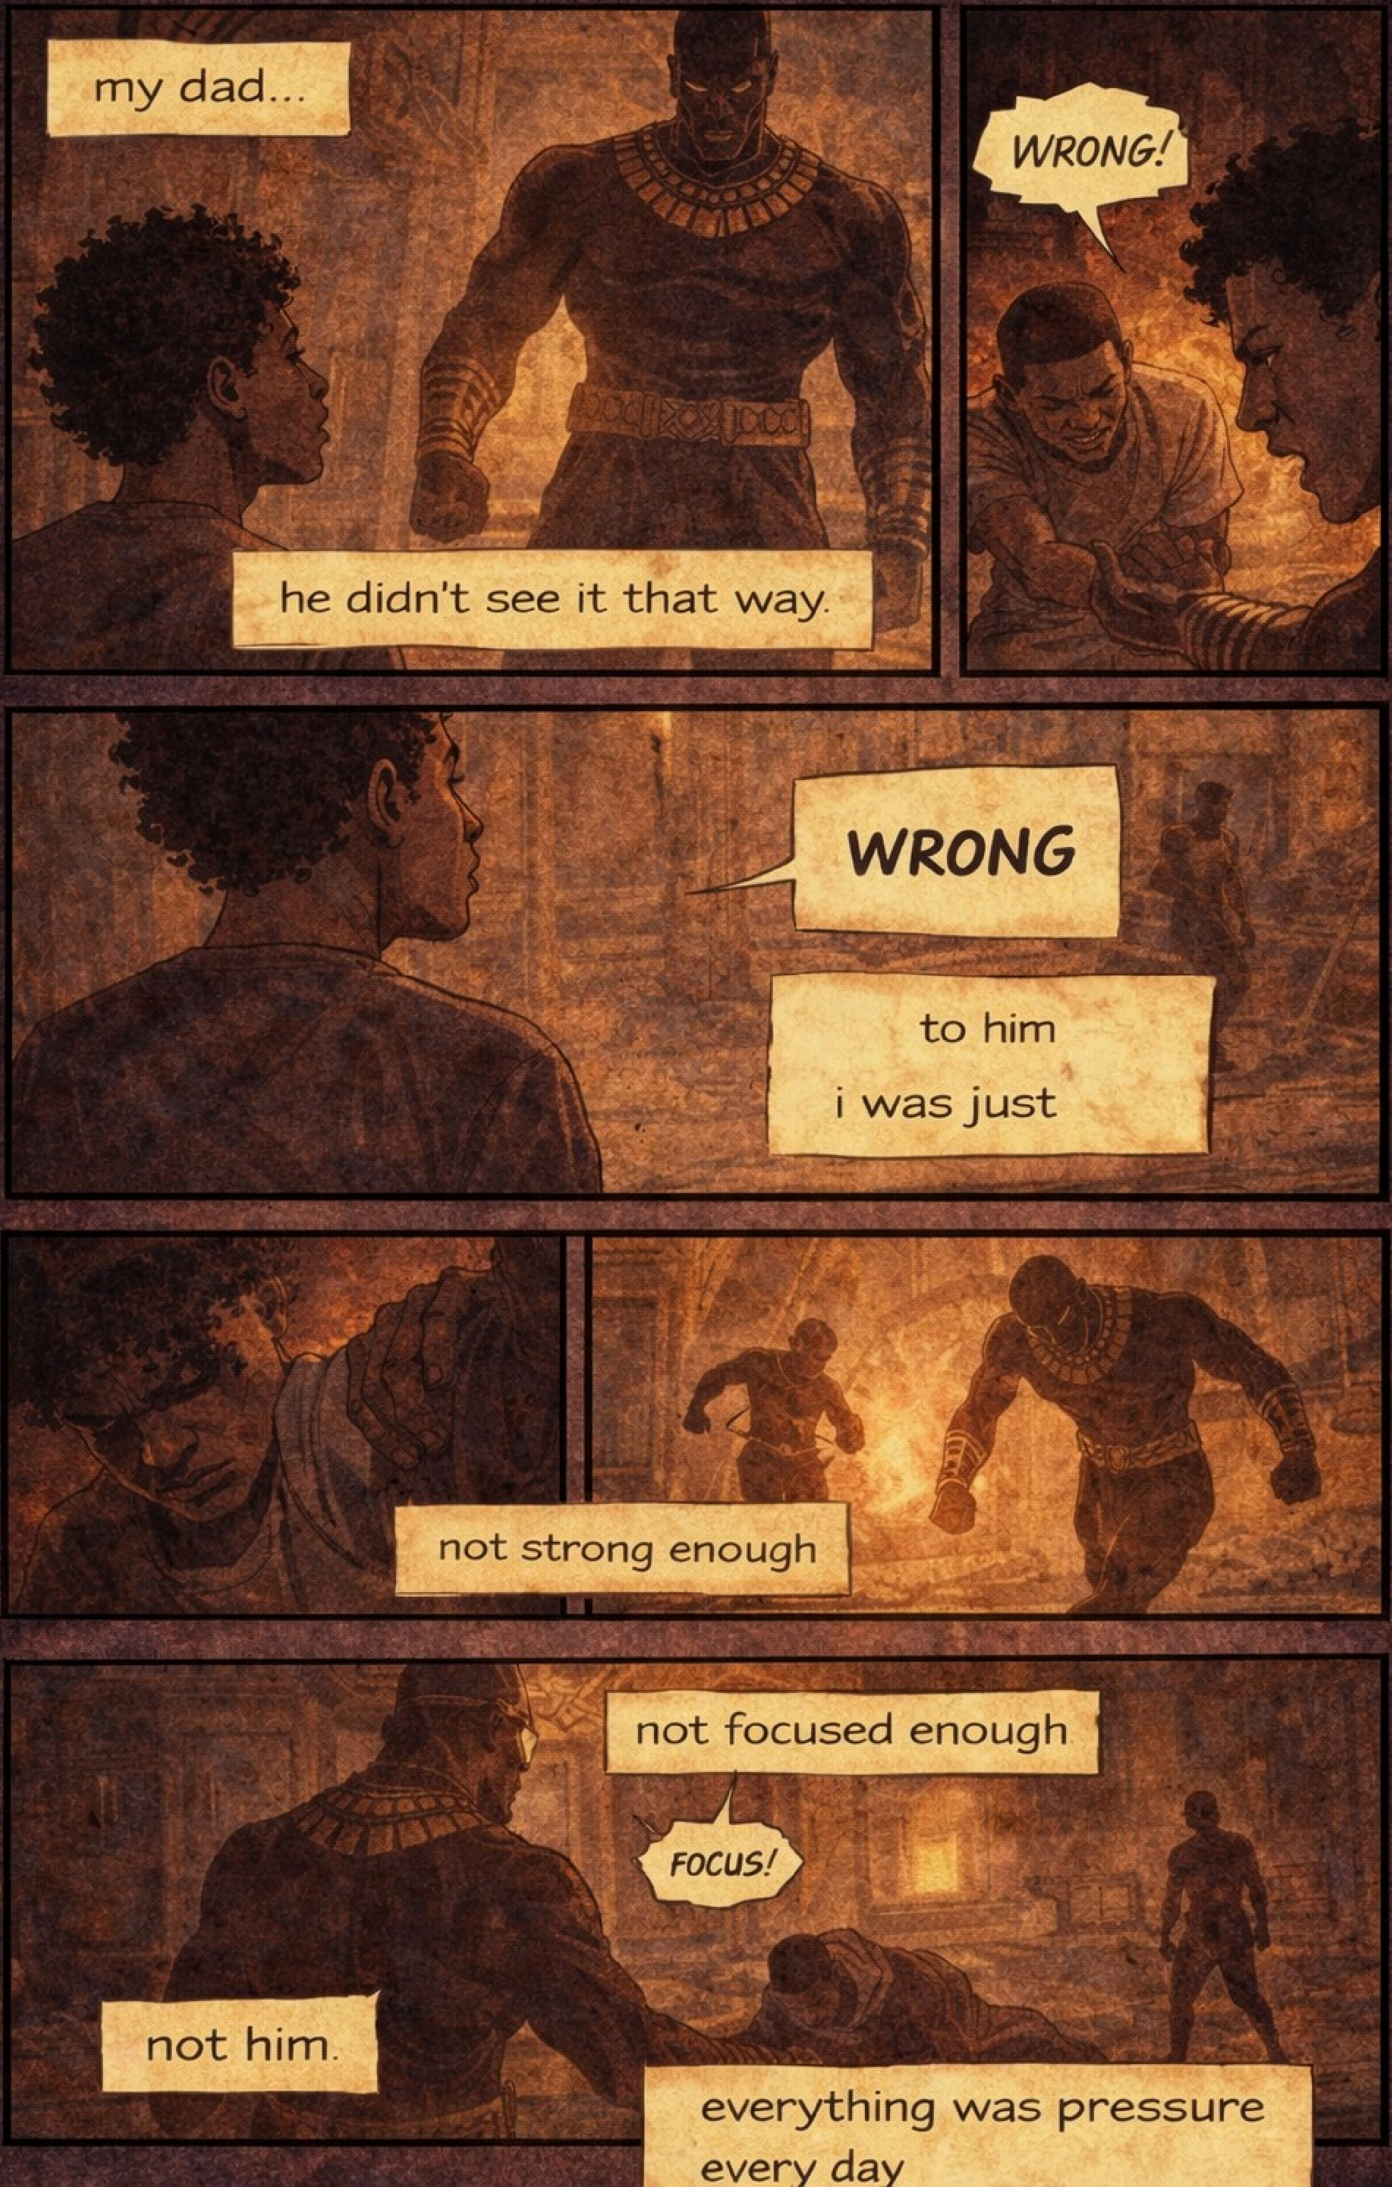
but me?



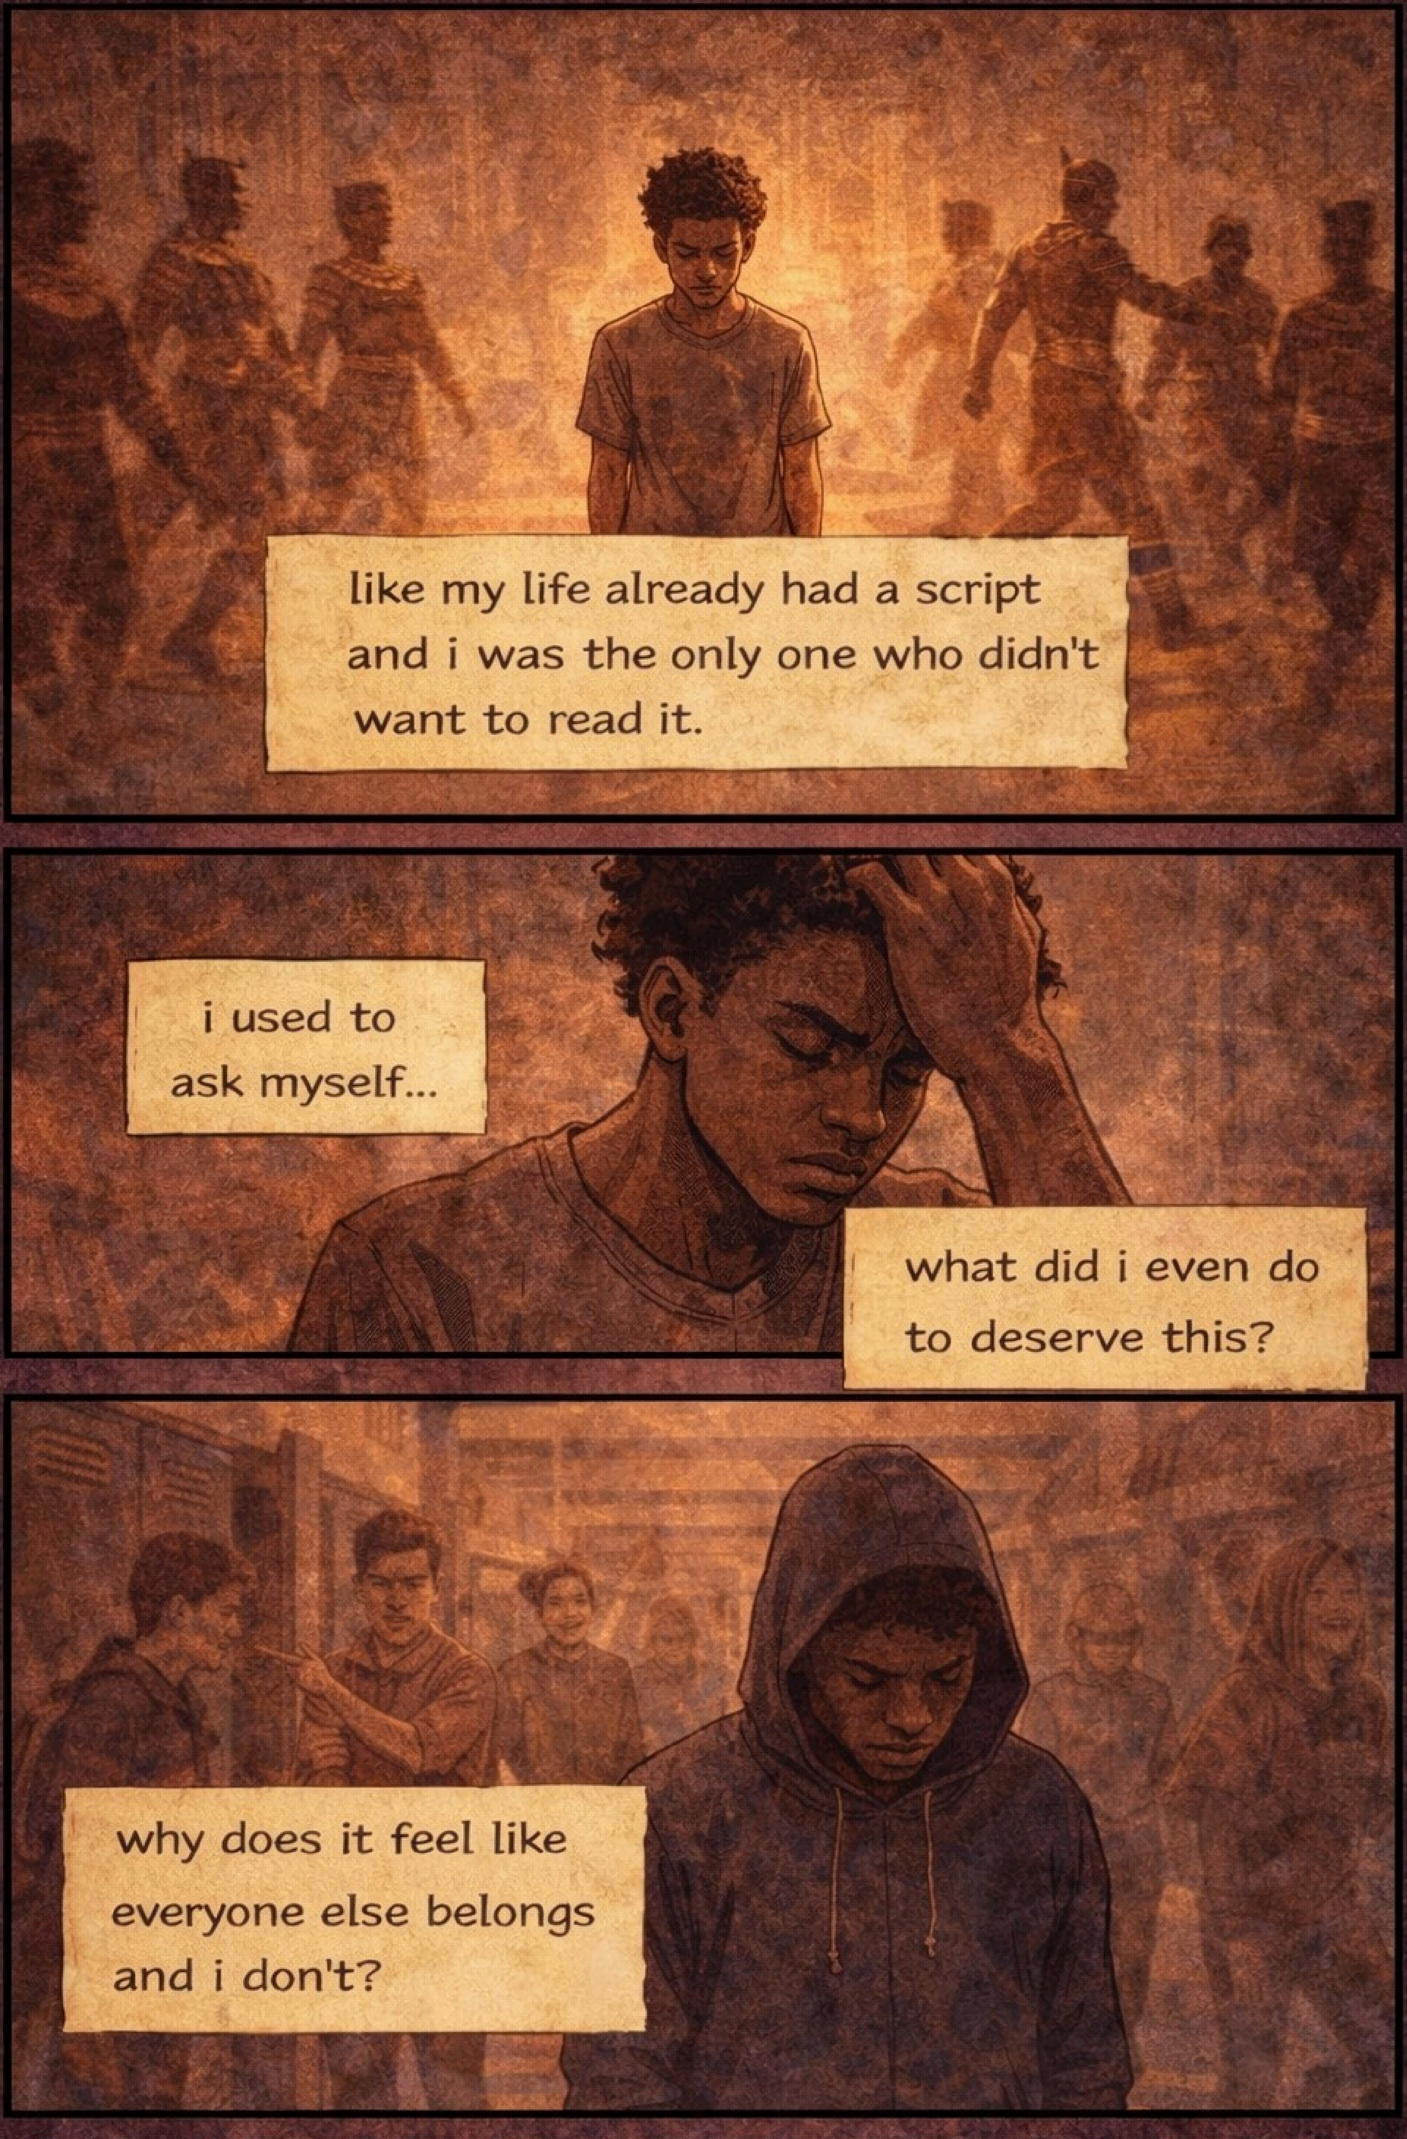
i never felt it.
it always felt like i was just there. watching it.



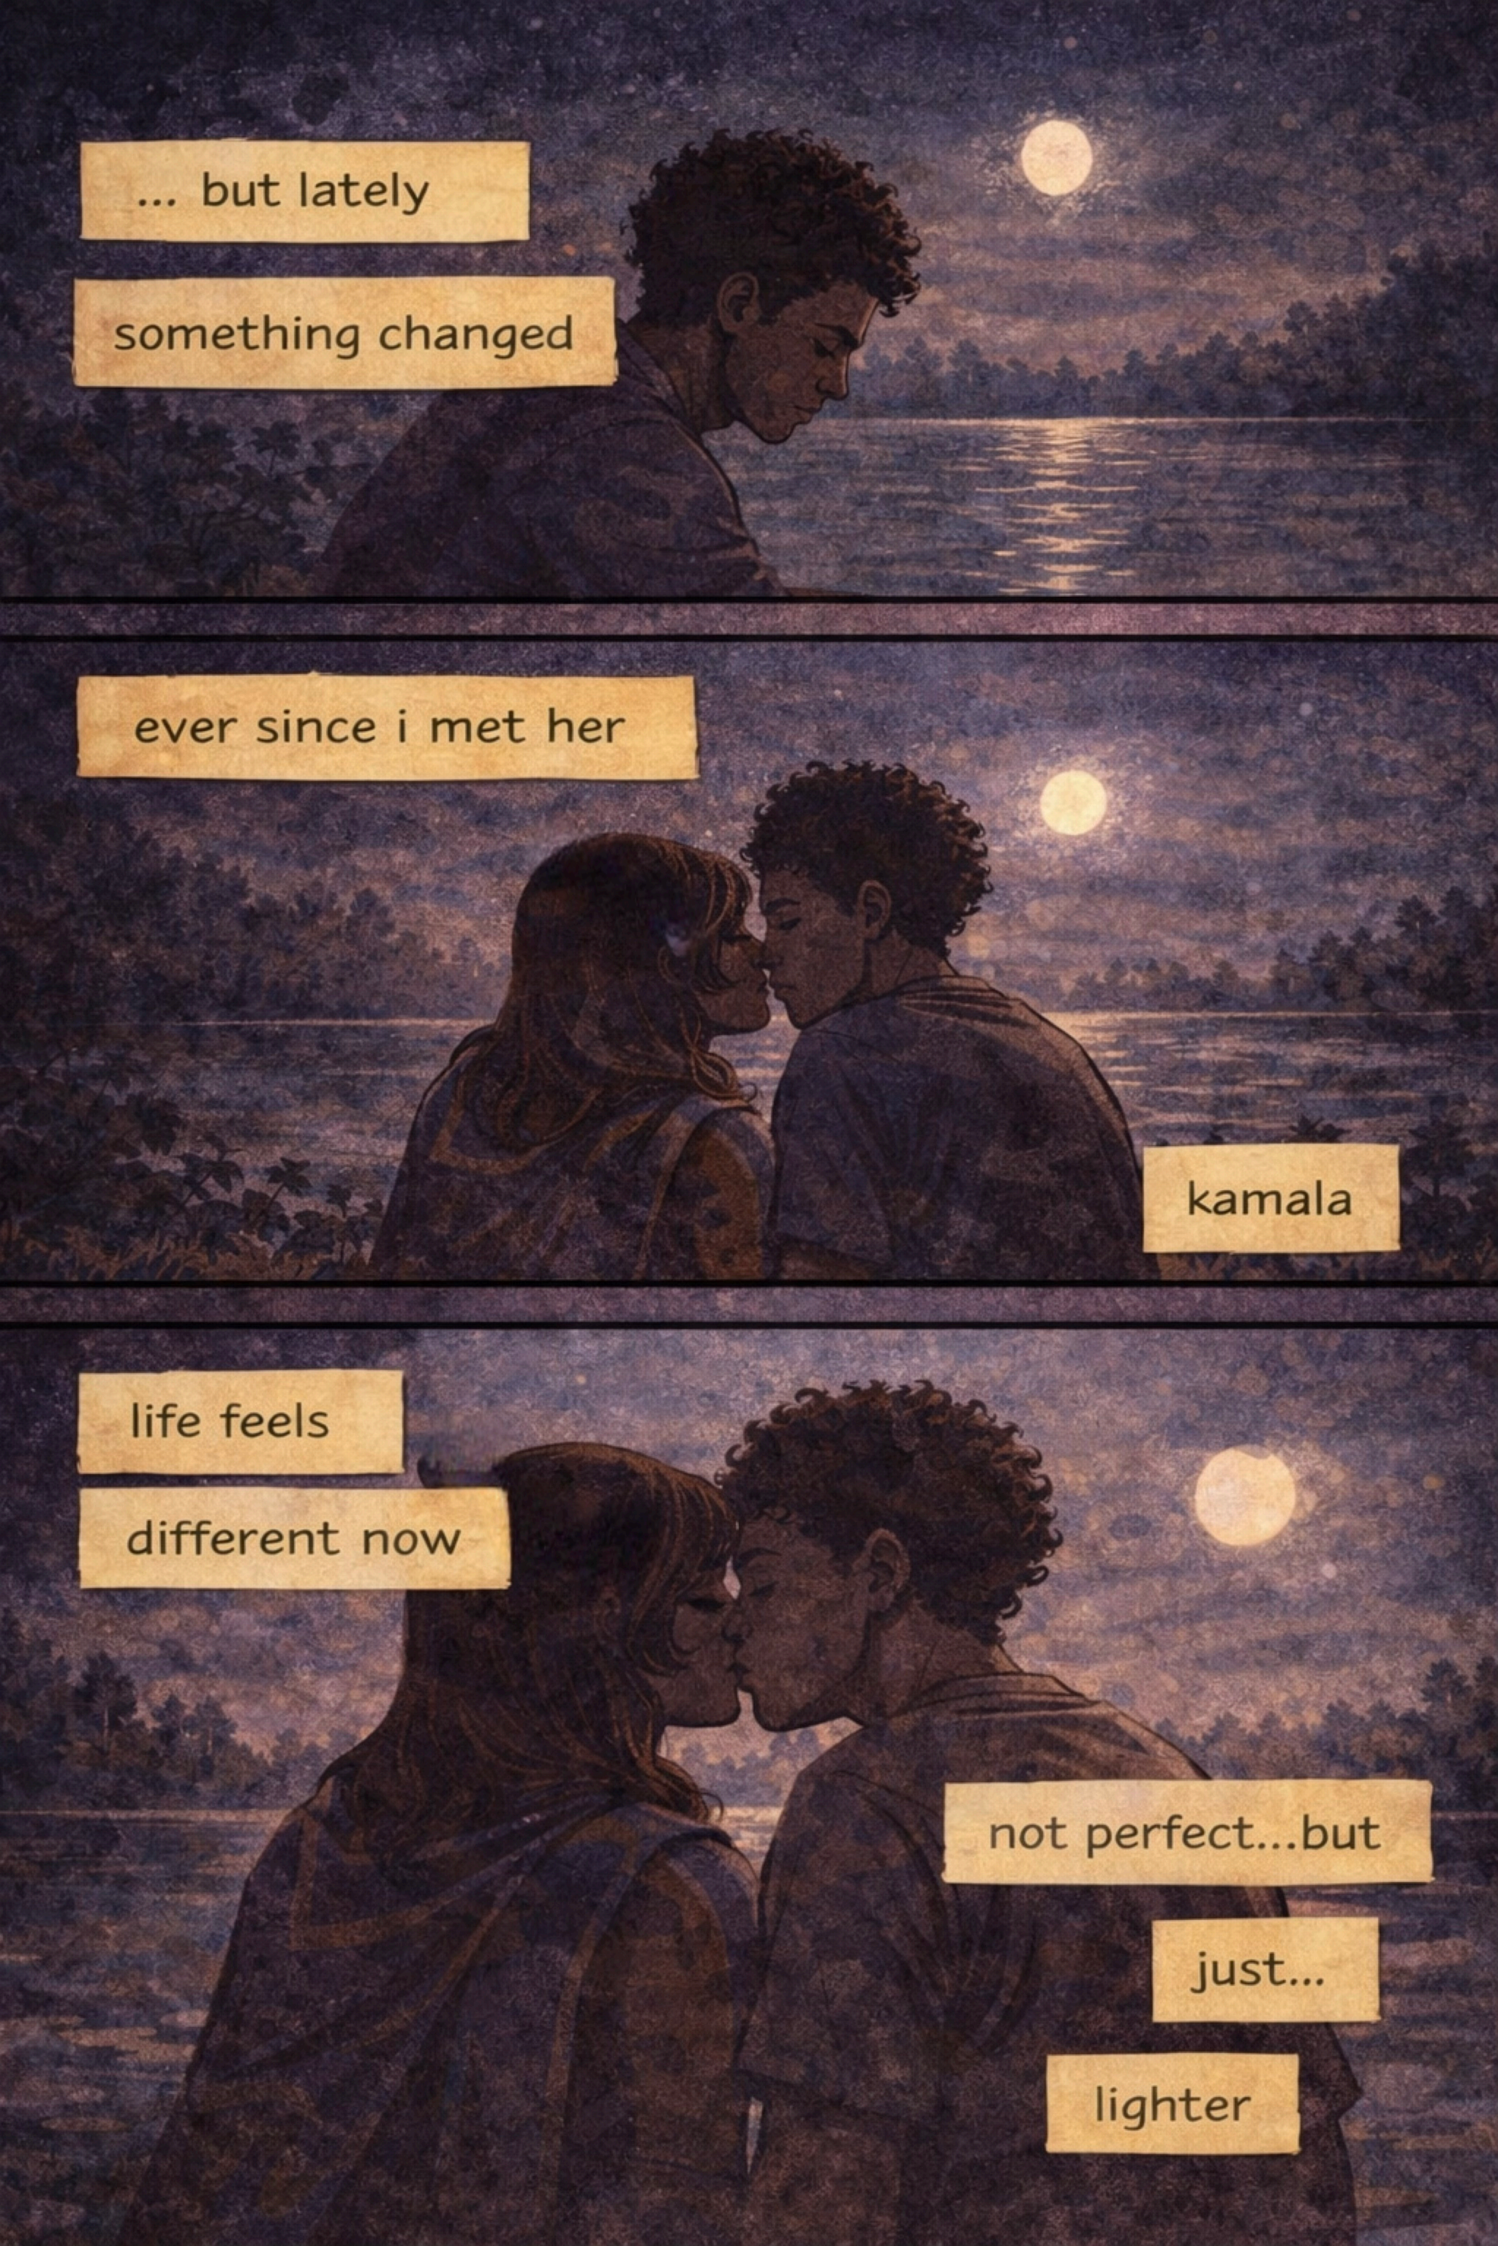
like everybody else was part of something and i missed it.



my dad...
he didn't see it that way.
WRONG!
WRONG
to him
i was just
not strong enough
not focused enough
FOCUS!
not him.
everything was pressure
every day



like my life already had a script and i was the only one who didn't want to read it.
i used to ask myself...
what did i even do to deserve this?
why does it feel like everyone else belongs and i don't?



... but lately
something changed
ever since i met her
kamala
life feels
different now
not perfect...but
just...
lighter

like there's more out there than just what i came from
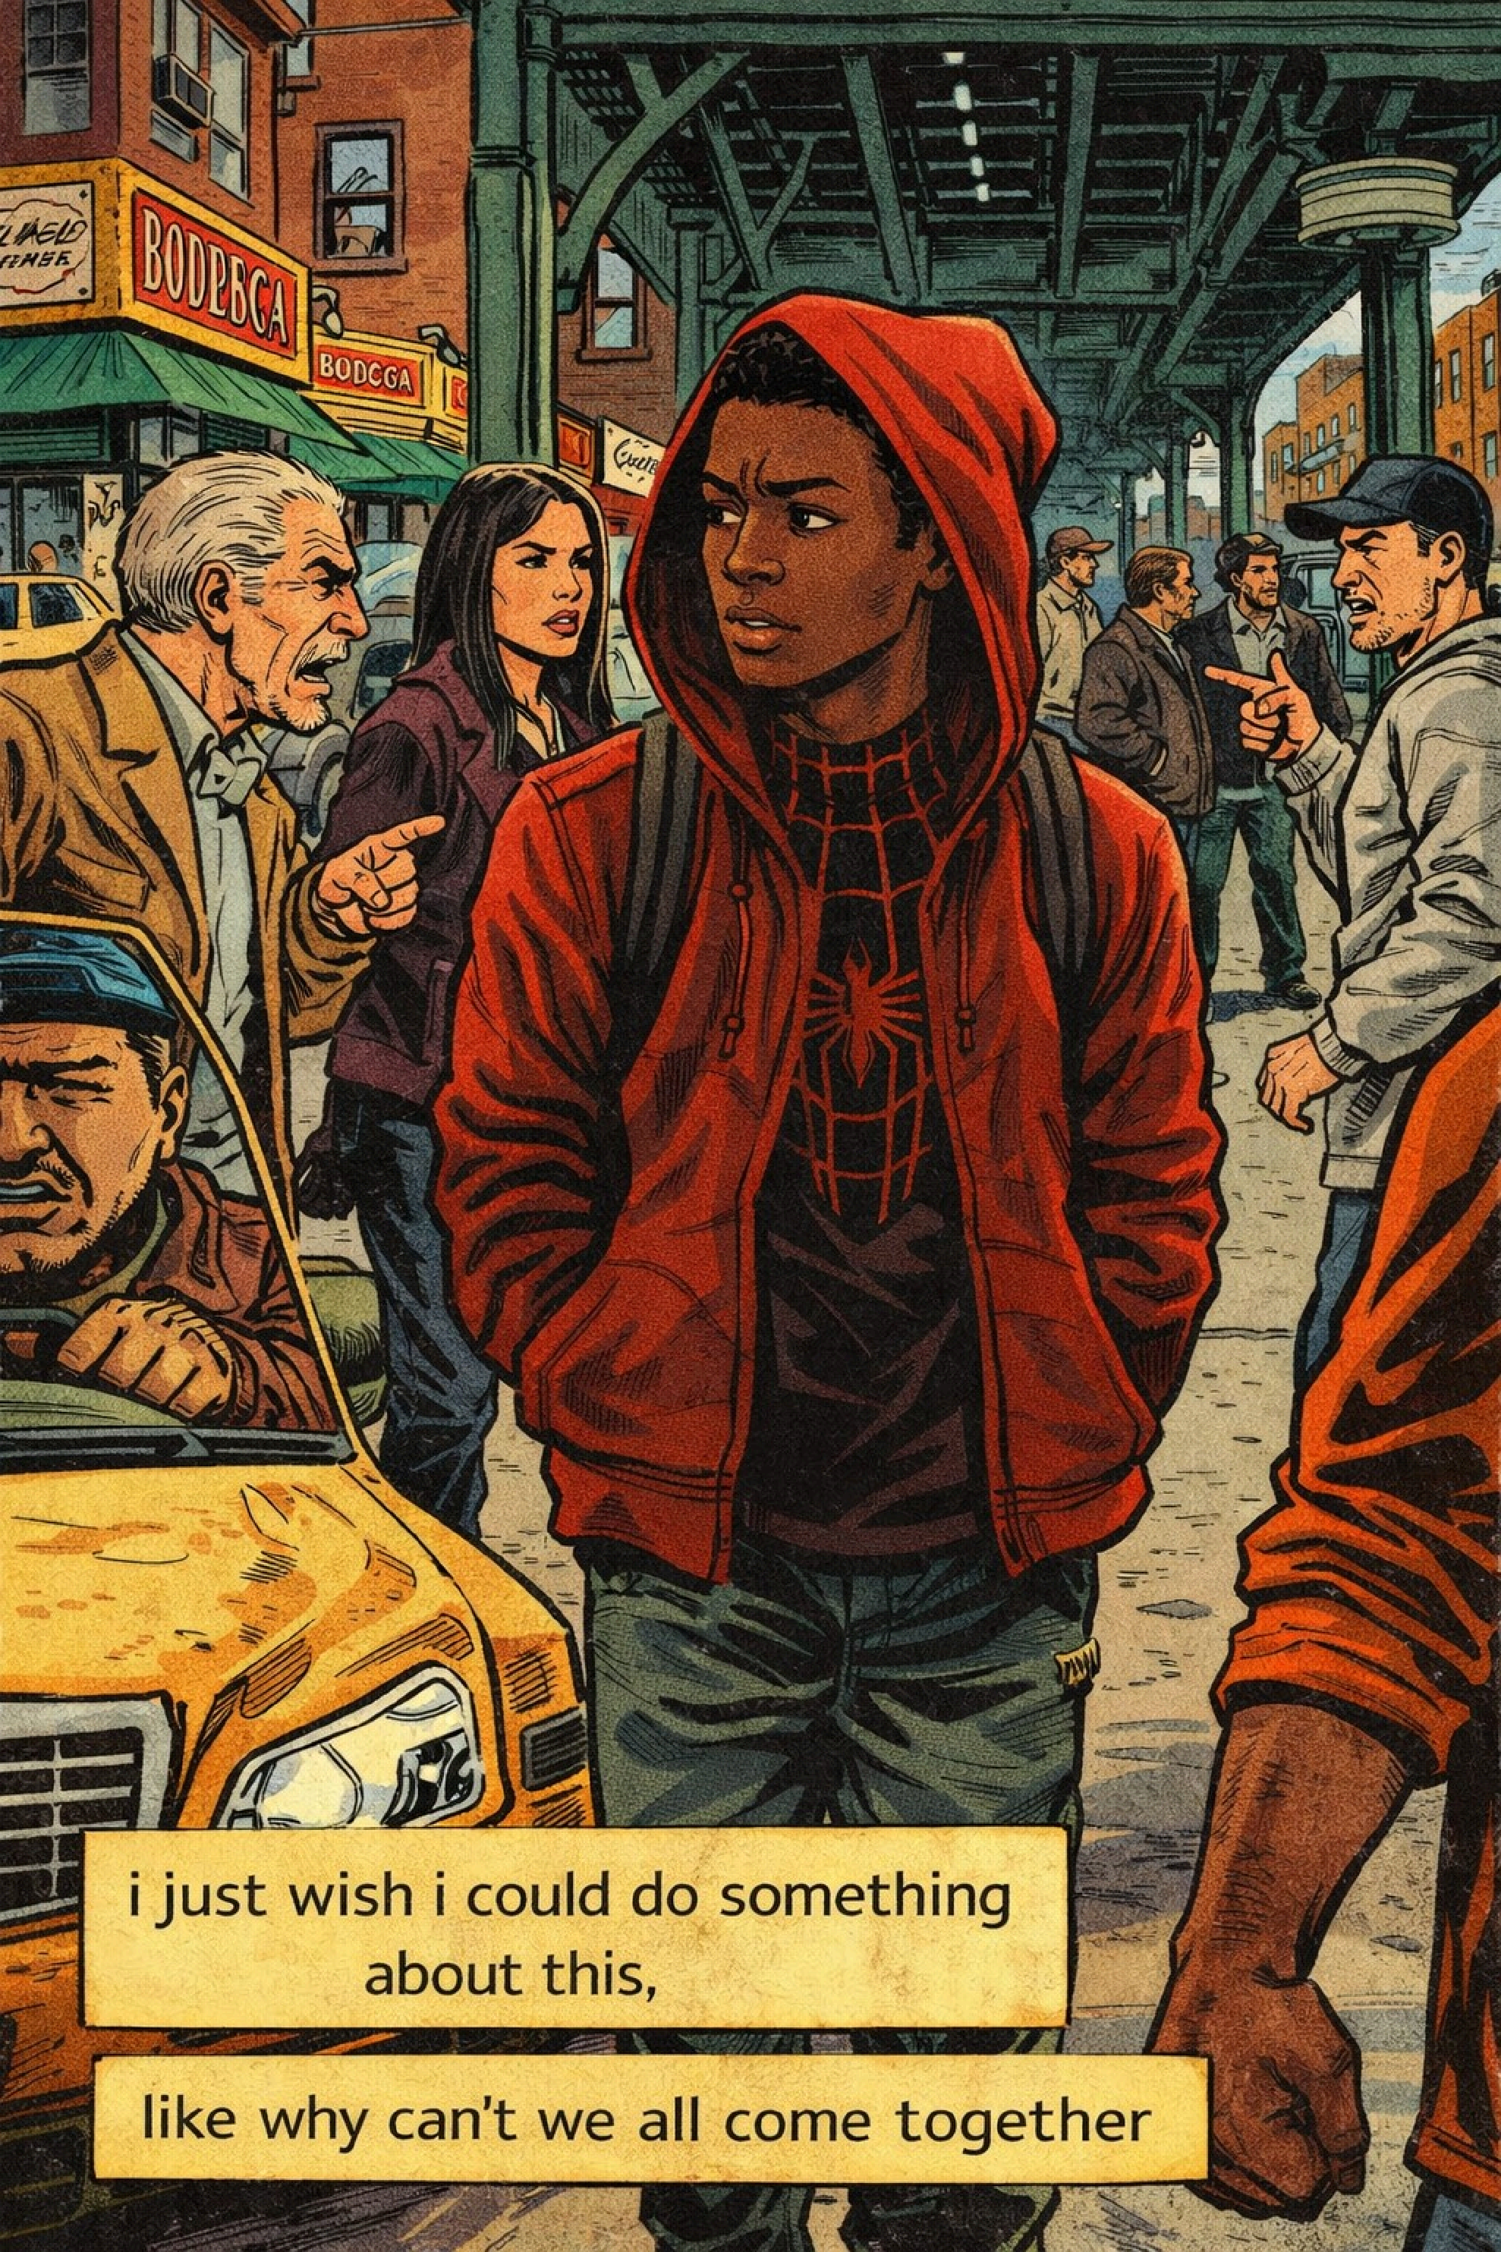
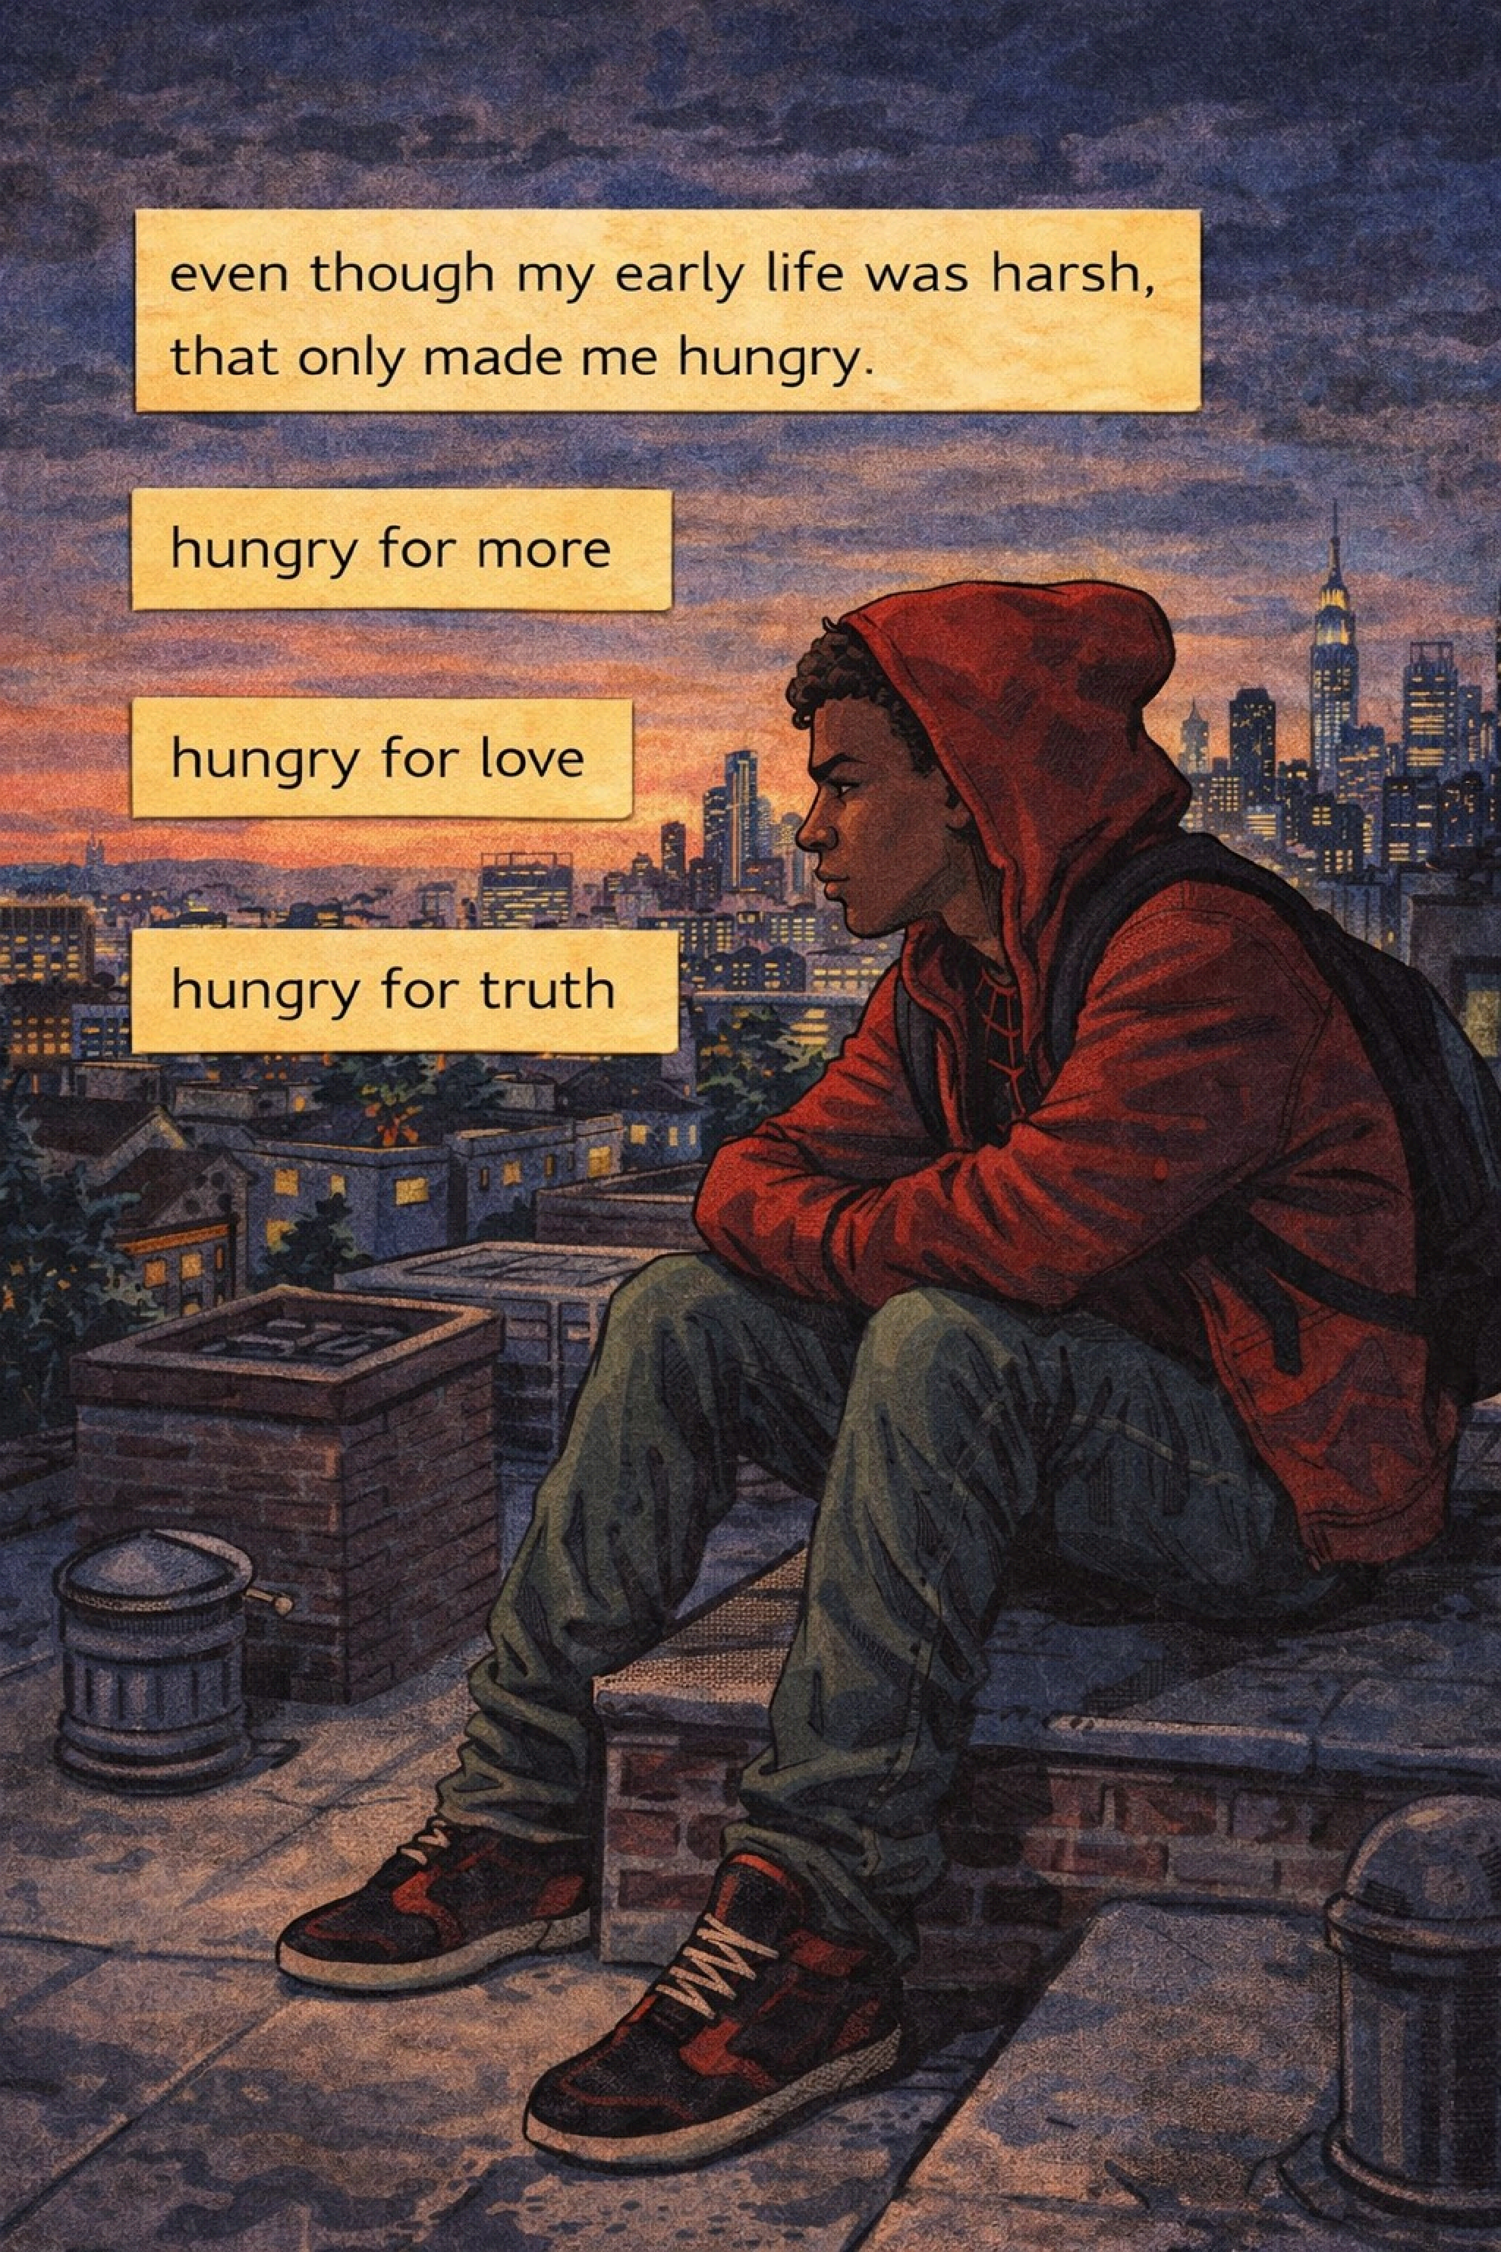
there's so many people so many cultures
so many lives being lived



i just wish i could do something about this,
like why can't we all come together



even though my early life was harsh,
that only made me hungry.

hungry for more

hungry for love

hungry for truth

SO TO BE HONEST....

I FEEL HOPEFUL NOW

IM READY
